WASHINGTON (UPI)—Hundreds of college students swarmed into Washington today for a massive demonstration at the White House and on Capitol Hill against atmospheric nuclear testing by the United States or Russia.

Organized under the label "turn toward peace," the students streamed in throughout the night and this morning by bus, train, plane and automobile, armed with placards and literature. They called for concrete steps toward disarmament.

FOUL WEATHER PLAGUES U.S. COAST TO COAST

CHICAGO (AP)—Snow and sleet spread across areas in the United States midwest and west today. More rain doused water-soaked, muddy sections of Southern California. Severe thunderstorms rumbled across areas in the southeast in the wake of tornadoes which skipped across parts of Mississippi and Louisiana.

Snowfalls ranged up to two feet in parts of New York State.

Storm-related deaths in the northeast numbered at least 28.

Although more rain fell today, there was welcome news for rain-soaked Southern Californians: No heavy downpours expected and only occasional showers forecast for the next two days.

The weather bureau said the latest storm was moving on after delivering its big punch Thursday. Los Angeles recorded 1.35 inches while 2.19 inches fell in suburban Maywood and Bell.

In its wake the storm left devastating mudslides, sinking and sliding homes, flooded intersections, undermined roads.

NEHRU WON'T BE THERE

Russ Hope to Lure Neutrals to Summit

MOSCOW (AP)—The newspaper Soviet Russia said today Russia hopes the heads of the eight neutral nations on the UN disarmament negotiating group will attend the summit session Premier Khrushchev has proposed to be held next month in Geneva.

The official newspaper said "Khrushchev's proposal was addressed not only to leaders of the Western powers, Kennedy and Macmillan, but also to leaders of neutral countries which are members of the committee on disarmament."

Indian Defence Minister V. Krishna Menon told a political meeting that Prime Minister Nehru would not attend the Geneva meeting because he would be busy forming his new cabinet and entertaining President Kennedy's wife on her visit to India.

(Menon added that a summit disarmament conference would be nothing but a circus and he didn't expect "anything concrete to emerge.")

The Soviet newspaper also quoted the London Daily Express as saying that a diplomatic catastrophe for the West would occur if Nehru and President Nasser of the United Arab Republic attend while President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan stay at home and carry on with plans to explode nuclear test bombs.

Soviet Russia said the neutral countries could play an important role as "arbiters."

More Douk Arrests Due —Terrorists Strike Again

Tunnelled Into Jail Compound

NELSON (CP)—Terrorists tunnelled into a provincial jail compound and planted three incendiary bombs Thursday night and the resulting explosion sent flames racing through the old jail annex.

Police and firemen rushed to the scene and snatched two unexploded bombs from the building. The fire was controlled in about 40 minutes with damage estimated at $3,000.

A few hours later RCMP reported another bombing incident in the Slocan Valley. A power pole was cut off at the butt by a dynamite explosion at a point near Winlaw, 50 miles north of Trail. There was no interruption of power in the area.

RCMP put the bombings down to a continuing reign of dynamiting and arson that has broken out sporadically throughout the Kootenays since police rounded up 79 suspected Sons of Freedom Doukhobor terrorists.

DUG TRENCH

Police said the Nelson incendiaries dug a trench under a 15-foot high fence that surrounded the compound less than 40 yards from the old provincial jail, where more than 30 Freedomites are being held for trial on bombing and arson charges.

The terrorists crawled through the tunnel undetected by two guards who patrol the compound around the clock.

They gained entrance to the annex by jimmying a door. A crowbar and candles were found in the compound by investigating officers.

Police dogs were brought in. They found the tunnel but lost a scent 200 yards away.

Fire Chief E. S. Owens said the bombs were made from glass bottles each containing about a gallon of gasoline and a wick. One of the bombs started the fire. Two unexploded incendiary bombs were found—one in the basement of the old annex building and the other on an upper floor.

COURTHOUSE ATTEMPT

The explosion was similar to an incident Feb. 4 when oil bombs were used in an attempt to destroy Nelson's 50-year-old courthouse.

BCE ASKS LICENCE FOR PEACE

B.C. Electric has filed its application to the B.C. government's water controller for a licence to build the Peace River power project.

B.C. Electric chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum said today that notices of the application were posted Tuesday at the Portage Mountain damsite in the Peace River country, near Hudson Hope.

He said full details of the engineering and plans were being filed with the regional water recorder at Pouce Coupe.

These details will be forwarded to Water Controller A. E. Paget in Victoria within a few days.

Mr. Paget will then decide if it is necessary to call public hearings either here or in the areas to be flooded out by the dam.

"We're going right ahead with this as fast as we can," said Dr. Shrum.

He said that most of the preliminary work at the damsite has now been completed.

An access bridge across the river has been finished and the first load of equipment will go over next Monday, he said.

Work on a pilot tunnel to test rock conditions has also been finished.

Dr. Shrum said he has advanced the contract date for the first major project—three diversion tunnels to cost about $20,000,000—by two weeks.

The contract will be let March 20 he said.

'D' Squad At Work —Bonner

OTTAWA (CP)—Attorney-General Robert Bonner of British Columbia indicated today that further arrests may be made among Sons of Freedom Doukhobors and, as a result, there will be problems involving the federal and provincial governments.

Mr. Bonner, here to confer with Justice Minister Fulton, noted that 72 members of the religious sect now are under arrest and 14 have been convicted of charges arising from terrorist activities.

"As evidence permits, the number of arrests will rise," he told reporters. "There will be matters of joint national and provincial concern arising out of this."

ANOTHER OUTBREAK

Terrorists set fire Thursday night to a building next to the Nelson courthouse where a number of the Sons of Freedom are being tried.

Mr. Bonner said that fire "serves to emphasize the seriousness of the questions of community order facing the west Kootenays. I am sure Mr. Fulton is just as concerned as we are because the situation appears to go beyond the normal problems of law enforcement."

He was asked whether this indicated the B.C. authorities believe the terrorist activities have gone beyond the capacity of the province to handle.

Mr. Bonner said he is not here to ask for "aid to the civil power," the technical term for calling out troops to assist police.

Following the 90-minute conference, the two ministers declined to give specific details of the action to be taken.

FORM SPECIAL SQUAD

Mr. Bonner said evidence collected by police over the last two or three years now is beginning to fall into place. Policing had been intensified this year through a special "D" squad, employing traditional police methods with "uncommon ingenuity."

About 40 to 50 RCMP men were operating in the general area, occasionally all on terrorist investigations.

Regarding proposals to disperse the sect, Mr. Bonner would say only that he took up with Mr. Fulton certain recommendations of his own without indicating their nature.

U.K. Troops Sent to Lift Guiana 'Siege'

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain decided to dispatch two companies of troops to British Guiana today to assist the government to maintain order in the South American colony in the wake of widespread strikes.

A statement by the defence ministry here said the troops would be flown out today in answer to a call by the leftist government, made through Governor Sir Ralph Grey.

Radio reports picked up in The Hague from the British self-governing colony in northern South America said a state of GEORGETOWN (Reuters)—Police twice hurled tear gas grenades today to disperse crowds demonstrating against the left wing British Guiana government of Cheddi Jagan.

The reports, quoted by The Netherlands news agency, also said Grey had banned public meetings and demonstrations throughout the colony.

BUDGET SPARKS UNREST

Grey's action followed widespread strikes sparked by budget proposals put forward by the leftist government of Prime Minister Cheddi Jagan.

The colonial office said the troops were being sent "for the sole purpose of maintaining law and order" and meant no reflection on the policies of the Jagan administration.

In the colony's capital of Georgetown Thursday, thousands of Guianans demonstrated against the government outside the parliament building in defiance of a ban by Grey.

Demonstrations and strikes were called by the trades union council to protest increased taxation and a compulsory savings plan in Jagan's new budget.

Among the strikers were the staff of Georgetown Hospital.

FRENCH TEACH ENGLISH AND VICE VERSA

MONTREAL (CP)—Dr.

Wilder Penfield, noted author and neurologist, today urged the use of French-speaking teachers in English schools and English-speaking teachers in French schools to facilitate the teaching of a second language.

"The schools of Canada are no worse than elsewhere in the world, or at least not much worse," he told a meeting of the Canadian Alliance.

He expressed hope that Quebec's 10th province—will "see fit to join such a meeting."

Mr. Diefenbaker replied in the Commons to a query by H. W. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West).

The prime minister told Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier) that letters from the provinces will be tabled as soon as agreement is received for such a step.

Premier Lesage of Quebec has taken the view that a federal-provincial conference isn't necessary since power is a provincial matter and a grid is on the agenda for the third annual premiers' conference to be held at Victoria this summer.

A national power grid is envisaged as providing transmission links capable of tapping now-distant sources of hydro or funneling power from areas of surplus to those in need. It would permit exchanges between provinces to meet periods of peak demand.

DEAD AT 80

Algeria Peace Near But Violence Grows

PARIS (Reuters)—French cabinet ministers today discussed tighter measures for France and Algeria in readiness for the announcement of a cease-fire in the Algerian war.

Informed sources at Geneva said today an agreement to end the war had been concluded, with the exception of a few details, and was to be signed in Paris within the next 10 days.

Premier Michel Debre presided at the cabinet meeting that was attended by Defence Minister Pierre Messmer, Justice Minister Bernard Chenot, interior chief Roger Frey, delegate-general in Algeria Jean

Morin, and Paris Police Prefect Maurice Papon.

No announcement was made after the meeting but official sources expected stringent measures to be applied in France and Algeria to guard against disorders by European extremists in case of the cease-fire.

But as peace in Algeria drew closer, extremists on both sides continued their program of violence.

Three prominent newspaper men on the influential daily paper Le Monde were the targets of plastic bomb blasts.

One of the explosions occurred outside the apartment of Le Monde's political commentator Jacques Fauvet.

Centennial Flashback...

FEBRUARY 16

D. Jacobi today threw open the doors of a German coffee saloon, on Yates Street opposite Hibben and Carswell's. Early patrons described the place as "first class."

Major Tilton, formerly surveyor general of Washington Territory, purchased a portion of C. B. Young's property at the foot of Johnson Street adjoining the old bridge, including four frame buildings, for $12,000.

A warrant officer from the gunboat Forward reported he had been fired on last night by an Indian, as he was walking along Esquimalt Road. The ball whistled past his ear. It has not been established whether there is any connection with threats made against Royal Navy officers after the execution of "Charley," a Cowichan Indian, for the murder of an R.N. stoker.

The schooner Meg Mertiles, reported lost with all hands early in January, arrived from Barclay Sound, where she had been locked in the ice all winter.

THIS WORLD OF OURS

People and Things

(From Times News Services)
DONCASTER, Eng.—Butch, a tobacco-craving dog, has been banned from smoking in taverns here because he is careless about how he spits out his cigarette butts.

Tavern-keeper Ron Butchers said today: "Butch is wonderful but his cigarettes have caught the legs of one or two of our customers and it is not nice."
Butch's owner, 59-year-old timber dealer Ralph Spenser, added: "It's the customers who give him the cigarettes. But the ban can be a good thing for Butch."
"He has been smoking too much and has a bit of a cough."

MOBILE, Ala. — Recorder's court Judge Frank Massa Thursday dismissed vagrancy charges against a 64-year-old man found sleeping in a casket, sprinkled with beer cans, in a mortuary warehouse.

"Anyone original enough to set up a bar and a dormitory in a casket certainly has a future in store for himself," Massa said.

OTTAWA — Mayor Charlotte Whitton says there are too many clock watchers on the city hall staff — and they are in too big a hurry at quitting time.

Quitting time is 5 p.m. at city hall, but the mayor said the rush for the exits starts 15 minutes before.

"The other day I had to walk downstairs because I couldn't get on the elevators," the mayor told board of control Thursday.

"Some big bull with a cigar in his face bumped me out of the way."

BUCKNELL, Ind. — Charles Overbay, 26, is too absent minded to be a successful burglar, police said Thursday.

In his rush to leave the scene of a tavern break-in, officers said, Overbay left his suitcase containing his identification papers.

AYLMER, Que. — For the first time in its 122-year history the mayor and council of this community 40 miles northwest of downtown Ottawa will get paid.

Council passed a bylaw Thursday night calling for a $1,000 yearly wage for Mayor J. Neil O'Donnell, an Ottawa school teacher, and $500 for each of the six aldermen.

Aylmer, which now has a population of 6,200, was incorporated in 1840 and is an older municipality than both Ottawa and Hull.

PARIS — The man who dropped the atomic bomb on Nagasaki in 1945 said today he would do it again if he had to.

He is Air Force Gen. Charles W. Sweeney, 43, of Boston, Mass., now commanding the Phalsbourg air force base in Eastern France.

"I'm a soldier. I obey orders," Sweeney said.

The blast he dropped from the second atomic bomb ever dropped on a city killed 73,884 persons. The Second World War ended 24 days later with Japan's unconditional surrender.

Switch-Hitter Martin Goes To Bat with Play on Words

Health Minister Eric Martin books. All the debt which exists explained his government's fiscal policy. Consequently, the taxpayer — except for the 2½ per cent subsidy to the Toll Authority — does not pay for the liabilities which have been incurred.

Mr. Martin said if it wasn't for Toll Authority projects the public would have to "swim the Fraser instead of using the Deas Island tunnel."

"Who's retiring all these liabilities? Not the taxpayers."

He added, after explaining the "debt-free" policy, which has eliminated direct debt, but piled up $1,250,000,000 worth of contingent liabilities, or debts being paid off by Crown agencies.

"FED UP"

"I'm fed up with the opposition attitude regarding direct debt," said Mr. Martin, describing himself as an accountant who had looked at the situation very carefully.

"There is not one cent of indebtedness on the government's books."

He went on: "The more criticism we get, the more we're doing for you."

Opposition members suggested he only wanted favorable criticism. Or "apple polishing."

"I don't eat apples — except when they're stewed. I like stewed apples," said Mr. Martin. "I got out of that one too," he added, grinning.

He said the federal government had 20 Crown agencies, but B.C. had only four and soon would have three.

He said that despite the fact that the federal government's contingent liabilities totalled $1,250,000,000, assets of the B.C. Crown agencies were $1,425,000,000.

"Never once did I hear any of you mention that figure," he chided the Opposition.

"GOOD LIBERAL"

He also asked about Monty Aldous, general manager of B.C. Ferries.

"He was a good Liberal," someone across the floor retorted.

"They are entitled to work for a living, just like anyone else," Mr. Robinson continued.

"They (the opposition) argue about Steacy and Wicks. I think Mr. Steacy is doing a good job, a wonderful job as B.C.'s representative in San Francisco."

CUBA INVASION CLAIM BEATEN DOWN IN UN

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—A Communist charge that the United States is planning an invasion of Cuba was beaten down in the United Nations Thursday—but 39 countries stood back from the argument.

The 39—mostly Afro-Asian countries—took the abstention route when a Czech-Romanian resolution was soundly hammered in the 104-member political committee of the 16th General Assembly.

He said he was not critical of Mr. Worley's ability as assistant manager of B.C. Ferries (he was former executive assistant to the premier) because he understood he was "well qualified as a former antique collector," a reference to the recent acquisition of Black Ball Ferries Ltd.

The member mentioned Percy Wright, a civil servant and former Secord MLA for Victoria who resigned in 1953 to make a place for Einar Gunderson, who was defeated but is vice-president of the government-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

The member's list included Charles Parker, of the department of lands and forests, an ex-MLA for Peace River; E. V. Merrick, a defeated candidate now superintendent at Tranquille Hospital; Hugh Shirreff, ex-MLA now with the toll authority; Walter Smith, three times campaign manager for Highways Minister P. A. Gallagher, given the job of building superintendent at Tranquille over the recommendation of the Civil Service Commission.

Now chauffeur
He pointed out that Norman Wells, involved in the Wade and Wells controversy over the Stewart-Cassiar Road, is now chauffeur for Mr. Gagliardi when he goes to Vancouver. (The minister's driver's licence is under suspension.)

And finally he brought up former labor minister Lyle Wicks, now an appointee to the B.C. Public Utilities Commission, and "another former minister of agriculture, lately a TV performer," referring to Newton Steacy, manager of the B.C. trade and travel bureau in San Francisco.

and so it goes. The government will call it the provincial employment service," Mr. Rhodes said.

FIRES BACK
The charge drew a heated reply from Don Robinson (SC—Lillooet) who was next to speak.

"If a man believes in Social Credit he's not supposed to work for the government?"

"He's not supposed to get special treatment," an opposition member replied amid a general din from the floor.

"This gives the impression that a man can't get a job unless he is a Social Creditor," Mr. Robinson protested. "It won't be long before there are so many Socials we'll have to go outside the province to get someone to work for us."

"Was Mr. Keenleyside a Social Credit (chairman of B.C. Power Commission)?" the member shouted at the opposition.

He also asked about Monty Aldous, general manager of B.C. Ferries.

Publicity Chief Doubts Booth Plea Will Work

A last-minute appeal for funds to operate a tourist information booth at the Seattle World's Fair went out by telegram this morning to 23 Vancouver Island and Gulf Islands municipalities, from the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

The move was authorized by bureau directors at a meeting Thursday afternoon despite a recommendation from the group's finance committee that the $56,000 booth be abandoned.

DOUBTFUL
Publicity Bureau commissioner W. J. Hawkins, Jr., said today although every effort would be made to raise the money, through the telegram appeal as well as a canvass of business interests who stand to gain from increased tourist traffic, he was doubtful of success at this late date.

It would mean the municipalities would increase their participation in the bureau's external advertising budget by about 112 per cent," he said, "and considering that five municipalities don't even contribute anything now, it seems rather hopeless."

In the case of Victoria, the allocation would require an increase of about $6,300 in council's allocation to the bureau's advertising budget, bringing the total to about $11,300.

At the Thursday afternoon meeting of the directors, debate on the matter was so hot that other business—including reappointment of Mr. Hawkins, nomination of new directors and approval of the bureau's regular budgets—went by the board.

QUICK PROTEST
After finance committee chairman Percy Scourrah reported the committee recommended the fair booth be dropped and the money spent on other forms of promotion, there was an immediate protest led by Victoria Aldermen Geoffrey Edgelow and A. W. Toone.

Ald. Edgelow warned that dropping the booth would be a serious backward step while Ald. Toone suggested the telegram appeal to let the municipalities know how serious an emergency faced the bureau.

Ald. Curtis, bureau president, said the municipalities were simply unable to finance the cost of the booth, but G. Conway Parrott claimed any alternative was better than abandonment of the plan.

A suggestion by David Jones that the cost be amortized over a two-year period was firmly opposed by Mr. Scourrah who claimed the bureau had to live within its available income.

New Mental Centre 'Pacesetter' for B.C.

By FRANK BUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

Working drawings are now being prepared for Victoria's new mental health centre which will have space for a maximum of 300 patients. Health Minister Eric Martin said Thursday.

He told the legislature: "We want to make Victoria a model on which to expand our services."

In preparation for the new centre, he said, the government is starting a gradual close-down of Colquhoun mental home, on Wilkinson Road in Saanich.

"No one is being admitted to Colquhoun," he said.

"Great will be the day when its doors are closed."

"It's a facility which never should have been used for the mentally ill, even if many of them were criminally insane. We are rectifying the wrong that has been done. We're going to fit these patients in to places like Essondale. Some will pass on and some will be transferred. But none will be added."

The new Victoria mental health centre to be built on the Wilkinson Road grounds will mainly provide out-patient care and will be similar to the Crease Clinic in Coquitlam.

There will be some in-patient beds for acute cases, and also space for "crib cases"—mentally ill children, Mr. Martin said.

Mr. Martin said the plans for the new centre are being drawn up after an advisory committee headed by deputy mental health minister Dr. Allan Davidson heard advice "from all quarters."

"We will not build large mental health hospitals such as we have at Essondale," he promised.

"The day of the large mental health hospital is over. This doesn't mean we're going to close out Essondale," he added. "The population at Essondale will go down with increased rapidity."

Mr. Martin said the new policy of his department is not to concentrate mental patients in any one area, but to treat them as close as possible to their local communities.

"Putting people away" may have been right at the time—I doubt it—but no longer will we countenance such a policy," he said.

Mr. Martin said that St. Joseph's Hospital in Victoria and Nanaimo General Hospital have also shown "an interest" in providing wards for psychiatric patients. At present in the province, the psychiatric ward to provide a total of 41 beds.

ERIC MARTIN
"Great will be the day"

Mr. Martin said his department was giving "top priority" to mental health following receipt of the Ross Report of the American Psychiatric Association.

He said he didn't agree with everything in the report, but it did provide an over-all model upon which to base up-to-date treatment.

He said he was disappointed that the report had not received wider circulation, like the Chant report on education. Since the report was made public only 200 copies had been sold, he said.

One of the problems had been the opposition of the Canadian Mental Health Association, which had dissociated itself from the report.

Mr. Martin said the CMHA had actually asked him not to release it.

"We do not necessarily accept the entire report—we have other sources from which we can draw in the way of advice," said Mr. Martin.

There was "no war" between the health department and the CMHA. "We are rapidly coming together," he said.

But, he added, "There is a tendency for psychiatrists to differ."

However, he was willing to defend their opinions. "Don't underestimate them. Just because he deals with mentally ill people doesn't mean he's nuts, too."

Mr. Martin said that the first step in the government's new mental health policy is to throw out old concepts of long-term institutional care.

The second step is to provide regional facilities stressing out-patient and short-term intensive care.

Third step will be to unite psychiatry and general medicine.

France Building Nuclear Arsenal

PARIS (AP)—France will continue nuclear testing until it has an arsenal of rocket-mounted thermonuclear bombs by 1970, Defence Minister Pierre Messmer said today.

Messmer wrote in the magazine Revue des Deux Mondes (Review of Two Worlds) that the six mechanized divisions and thermonuclear bombs and strategic ballistic missiles would be equipped with small tactical atomic weapons.

There will be a trained 1,000,000-man reserve, and the navy will have an atomic-powered submarine and four missile-launching vessels in addition to its two present aircraft carriers, Messmer said.

The present army numbers about 700,000 men, nearly half tied up in Algeria.

Who is Fooling Whom?

AS MINISTER OF EDUCATION Mr. Peterson teaches a queer lesson to the Legislature. He says his government never deceives people and then admits in effect that its budgetary figures are deliberately inaccurate.

Every year, according to Mr. Peterson, the government underestimates its potential revenues and over-estimates its expenditures, presumably to be on the safe side.

If this method is thrifty it is also deceptive. It means that the government's budgets are really meaningless. The Legislature cannot know in advance what money the government will collect or spend. And yet Mr. Peterson has the effrontery to charge the opposition party with "deception."

Then, with a bold stroke of irrelevance, he says that the CCF government of Saskatchewan does the same thing, and he proceeds to prove it with deliberate figures.

What has this to do with British Columbia? How could the practice of Saskatchewan, or any other province, justify deceptive figures here? When Mr. Peterson takes Saskatchewan as a precedent and justification in budgetary matters would he also approve the socialistic principles of the Saskatchewan government? Of course he would not (though in fact the British Columbia government has lately become, as a huge operator of public enterprises, the most socialistic government in Canadian history).

Saskatchewan's financial methods have nothing whatever to do with British Columbia's budget which Mr. Peterson admits—or boasts—is deliberately inaccurate.

After this masterpiece of confusion, Mr. Peterson goes on to confuse the state of the provincial debt by raising a straw man and knocking it down. Who, he asks, would regard the debts of the government's agencies as direct debt? Of course no one would and, so far as we know, no one has. But that, of course, is not the point.

While the borrowings of the government's agencies are not direct debt, the cost of them, in interest payments, is carried by the British Columbia taxpayers and no one else. They pay the bill not in taxes but in such charges as ferry fares, bridge tolls and electric bills. However they are levied, these costs cannot be escaped.

It is to be hoped, however, that Mr. Peterson's school teachers are more competent, or more candid, in the science of arithmetic than the minister of education.

Unfortunately Not Unspeakable

WITH TWO CABINET MINISTERS still in hot water for their ruffling of British feelings at Accra, where the Commonwealth discussed Britain's entry into the European Common Market, Mr. Diefenbaker now has another "incident" on his hands, with still more explanations, clarifications and back-peddalling to arrange.

The foot-in-mouth culprit this time is Mr. Joseph Pierre Sevigny, the associate minister of national defence, who is rapidly winning himself a reputation for saying the wrong thing at the wrong time.

Already Mr. Sevigny has embarrassed his cabinet colleagues with a public suggestion that we enter a common market of the western hemisphere—a proposition as new to the defence department as it was, no doubt, to Mr. Hees' department of trade and commerce and Mr. Green's department of external affairs.

Mr. Sevigny's latest contribution, however, far exceeds previous efforts. On the day that Prince Philip was shaking hands with the Legislature of British Guiana, Mr. Sevigny announced to a Montreal audience that "Communist governments have taken over British Guiana and Ecuador."

Hurray for Ignorance

WHILE MR. LESLIE PETERSON, the lawyer who wears the caps of minister of education and minister of labor, was outlining school proposals this week, he seemed to overlook the Gagliardi theory.

Mr. Gagliardi, speaking with vehemence and his own peculiar logic, set out this viewpoint on higher education:

A student who went through university and later entered law paid perhaps $5,000 of his own money for his university training. The taxpayers at large, through the government, paid $25,000 to make up the estimated $30,000 it costs to put a person through university. Hence, when the lawyer entered practice and reached the higher earning bracket, he was "profiteering" on the taxpayers.

This means, of course, that any person who graduates from university and as a result of his study there makes a financial success of his career is fattening himself at the expense of the taxpayers.

Higher education, in other words, is the highroad to profiteering.

By inference at least, the honest citizen does not profiteer on the taxpayers. He rejects higher education because it automatically makes the taxpayer a victim of the university student's parasitic development.

Hurray for ignorance! Let's have no more of this silly talk about a country needing more university-trained minds to lead it to higher achievement, or to keep up with the Russians.

Little Man Who Wasn't There

THE U.S. AIR FORCE'S OFFICIAL report is in now and the question has finally been decided: Flying saucers ain't.

For 15 years the Air Force has conducted investigations of reported queer happenings in the air. Unidentified Flying Objects, the popular term, have been traced to their origins and in almost every one of the 7,369 cases studied were found to be identifiable.

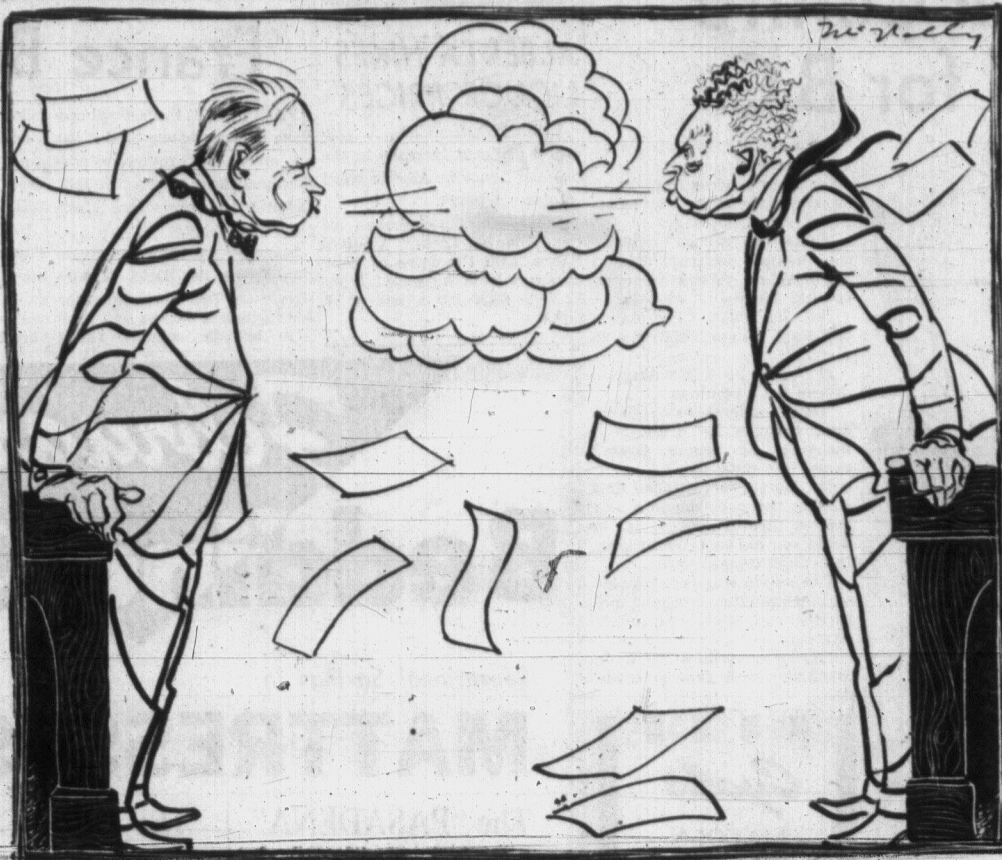

They were weather balloons, searchlights on clouds, earthly aircraft, satellites, explainable astronomical phenomena and similar things. The few still unexplained reports were so vague or conflicting that no conclusions could be drawn. But in not a single case was there any evidence of "little men," of weird spacecraft travelling at unbelievable speeds and changing direction without slowing down, of landings in deserts, of signals to selected earthlings or any other science-fiction happenings.

Thus officially dies a type of public delusion that enjoyed an extended run. The fad for sighting saucers and reporting them came at a time when people knew enough about space travel to think that anything was possible, but not enough about it to know when the bounds of probability were reached.

What many saucer devotees overlooked in their excitement was that no astronomer, physicist, biologist or other scientist of recognized standing subscribed to the saucer phenomena, and nobody ever produced any concrete proof.

The Air Force report will not stop saucer sightings, of course. There will still be queer lights and moving shapes and incredible speeds and other manifestations. But don't bother to report them to the Air Force, unless you can send a little man along to back up your story. From now on, all applications for saucer landings must be in person.

Blowing Up a Storm

THE SHIFTING TARGET

Of, For, By and Instead of, the People

By B. A. TOBIN

ONE of the most important aspects of citizenship is to identify yourself with your country. You have to feel a community of interest, a unity, a one-for-all-and-all-for-one tie up in order to get the benefit of belonging to a nation. Sometimes you don't get the full flavor of the relationship until you go to another country. Then you suddenly appreciate the fact that you are different from the people you are visiting, and that most of the difference lies in recognizing you belong to a different country. If you are a Canadian, you begin to feel more "Canadian" the longer you stay away. You may even become offensively so, although your hosts may be too polite to say so.

But the point is that you and your country come to seem as one, and it may be brought home to you that your country is being judged by others on the basis of how you act. Also, if some international incident arises, you may be blamed for the actions of your country.

It's all very natural and in many ways a good thing. An individual should be part of his country. But it can be overdone.

It sometimes becomes overdone when you get into the realm of government. It is very hard to make sharp distinctions between a country, a government and an individual.

The country is the total of the individuals—or at least the majority of them. The government is the representative body chosen from among the individuals—but sometimes it acts as the whole country, sometimes as itself, sometimes as a political party and sometimes as a majority of the individuals.

A government couldn't last a day without the individuals, but it can boss them around, tax them and even take their lives. Yet it must, in the long run, do what the individuals say.

The government collects the individuals' money but often spends it as though it were its own. It "gives" money to the individuals for this project or that, and is gratefully thanked for its generosity. The leader of the government may even take personal credit for his open-handedness in spending for this or that and be admired as the benefactor of the people.

Whose Is It?

The government leader who gives the individuals back a lot of money in one way or another is generous, liberal, alive to the needs of the nation. The man who saves their money and is slow to spend it may be called stingy, tightwad and unsympathetic.

But the "generous" leader may be denounced as a spendthrift and a robber when he puts up the tax rate to pay for his kindness; and the tightwad will be hailed at tax time and if he keeps taxes down—as a statesman.

An odd situation arises when a government begins to think that it not only represents the nation but that it IS the nation. There have been some outstanding examples of this phenomenon lately.

Mr. Diefenbaker, for instance, has often resorted to the idea of a double identity for his government. When the government performs some brilliant feat he claims it is a separate entity doing something FOR the country. But when the government comes under criticism—then it IS the country and no one should dare to raise an eyebrow or point a finger at it.

Two in One

When the Liberals, say, take a dim view of Canada's economic position under Mr. Diefenbaker, this is—as he told a Toronto audience—"degrading their country". When overseas newspapers quote the Opposition's criticism from Ottawa, this is besmirching Canada among foreigners. When it was suggested by home critics that Canada's prestige was falling somewhat in international circles as a result of government actions, Mr. Green saw this as "fouling our own nest."

It's a very handy device in politics, just as it is for the youngster in the snowball fight who keeps dodging behind his mother so his enemies can never be quite sure what they're aiming at. The mosquito on your cheek can always claim it's YOUR cheek that you're slapping, not his.

FROM OTTAWA

Behind the Estimate Figures: the Facts

By MAURICE WESTERN

MR. FLEMING tabled his main estimates on Monday, muffling the shock with a coy little press release. On the face of matters estimated budgetary expenditures are down by $203.4 million, with a saving of $143.6 million in the statutory area and $59.8 million in the non-statutory area.

This exercise in ministerial artifice is intended, no doubt, to persuade the country that the government is abandoning its free and easy spending ways.

With all these economies on the one hand and an improving economy generating larger revenues on the other, the bedazzled taxpayer is expected to perceive on the horizon the long-promised, oft-delayed balanced budget.

All this is so transparent that one wonders why Mr. Fleming bothered with it. For, in order to produce the illusion, he has had to compare the main estimates for 1962-63 with the total "to date" for 1961-62 which, of course, includes the main estimates for last year, plus the supplementary estimates, plus three sets of "further" supplementaries.

This would be valid only if the government was prepared to guarantee that the main estimates were the last word. No such expectation is warranted. All governments introduce supplementaries. Here are the totals for the various years since the Diefenbaker government took office.

Supplementary Items

1957-58, $261.2 millions, not including $71.7 millions financed by governor-general's warrants; 1958-59, $427.6 millions; 1959-60, $202.9 millions; 1960-61, $348.1 millions; 1961-62, $355.8 millions.

The only proper comparison, obviously, is that between the main estimates now tabled and the main estimates for 1961-62.

Before making this comparison, however, account must be taken of certain bills which Mr. Fleming will escape in 1962-63 because of the new fiscal arrangements with the provinces. Because of these changes he will not have to find $271.7 millions for which he was liable last year.

If he had been in this position last spring, his main estimates, instead of totalling $5,123.7 millions, would have totalled only $5,852 millions. As the total for 1962-63 is $6,276.2 millions, it is obvious that estimated expenditures are actually up by some $424.2 millions. What the government has saved by its deal with reluctant provinces (which they, no doubt, will make up at the expense of the taxpayers), it has earmarked for higher spending on other programs.

This is not the end of it. Partly because of crop failure on the prairies and partly because of higher grain exports, the government also expects to save $19.4 million on the costs of storing temporary wheat reserves. This saving has also, in effect, been spent in advance.

The government has also benefited from other savings. Last year it had to set aside $12.2 millions for the decennial census. Last year $50 millions had to be appropriated for "interim payments related to recommendations of the royal commission on railway problems pending its complete report."

Neither item had to be included for 1962-63. Taking these three big savings items together, Mr. Fleming had about $82 millions which might have been cut from the total estimates but was instead taken up by other spending departments.

Where have all these savings gone? Some of the big increases are readily identifiable. The labor department's estimate is up $79.2 millions; public debt charges are up $15 millions; national defence $61 millions; national health and welfare up $120.5 millions; transport up $27.8 millions.

There is almost $13 millions additional for northern affairs; an extra $7.6 millions for penitentiaries; an extra $5.6 millions for the CBC; almost $7 millions more for citizenship and immigration. So it goes.

Moreover, it is plain from Mr. Fleming's tables that the main estimates do not take account of some added expenditures already made certain by legislation passed at this session of Parliament.

One would expect higher estimates (because of the $10 increases in monthly payments) for old age assistance payments and allowances for the blind and disabled. In fact, the sums included are less by $7 millions than those approved in 1961-62.

The main estimates have been awaited with more than usual interest because of the remarkable cabinet comings and goings which preceded this session of Parliament. In some business circles, it has been held that Mr. Fleming was the victor in widely reported year-end disagreements.

The minister, of course, still has his job but it looks more and more as if the prime minister has had his way.

WASHINGTON:

Approach to A Meeting

By MAX FREEDMAN

BEFORE Secretary of State Rusk said that it was inopportune to hold a summit conference on disarmament in Geneva next month, a far-ranging debate took place among the senior officials in the Kennedy administration. In order to understand this debate it is necessary to place the main issues against the background of recent events.

When Mr. Khrushchev asked for a summit meeting on disarmament, he emphasized that the conference would be confined to this one subject. At all previous summit conferences there had been a vague agenda and the discussion had ranged widely over the main issues in world affairs.

By limiting the discussion to disarmament, and by having the heads of state present from the start, Mr. Khrushchev very shrewdly was seeking to turn the arguments of the British and American governments to his own advantage. For both President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan had emphasized that disarmament held the key to peace.

Could they fail to take risks for disarmament without injuring their claim to be servants of peace? Mr. Khrushchev strengthened his case by presenting it calmly and reasonably, without any personal abuse or strident propaganda. From his point of view, it was an admirable stroke of Russian policy.

Within the Kennedy administration there was a division of opinion on what the American response should be.

During the past few weeks the energy of Mr. Kennedy's advisers has been mainly devoted to the task of deciding whether the United States should resume nuclear tests in the atmosphere. After a prolonged debate the decision has finally been made to hold those tests, though the public announcement is still being delayed.

New Context

A summit conference coming at this time would clearly put the American tests in a new context. This fact was very clear to the Kennedy administration; so clear indeed that it required no emphasis in the Khrushchev message.

There was a natural reluctance, under these conditions, for the United States to be jerked towards a summit conference merely because Mr. Khrushchev had pulled the strings. But it was unwise and self-defeating for the American government to return a sullen negative to Mr. Khrushchev's overture.

Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Rusk therefore decided that a courteous, reasoned, and constructive reply had to be given to Mr. Khrushchev in a way that would hold open the possibility of a later summit meeting.

Thus the Kennedy administration has not rebuffed Mr. Khrushchev; it has placed Mr. Khrushchev under an incentive to send Mr. Gromyko to the foreign ministers' conference in a cooperative spirit.

Two points in particular now interest the Kennedy administration.

It wants to know whether Russia will agree to some kind of inspection system that will allow the United States to determine whether secret preparations for testing are being made in the Soviet Union. Reciprocal rights will of course be granted by the United States to Russia.

Secondly, the United States wants Russia to join in an agreement that will control the manufacture and use of the delivery vehicles used to transport nuclear weapons to an enemy target.

The disarmament debate now turns increasingly on supervision of delivery systems rather than on inspection of weapons. This change, the most important development in the past six months, has gone virtually unnoticed in the public debate but it now dominates the scientific and military discussion.

The test of Russia's intentions in Geneva will come when it gives its response to the American proposal to bring delivery systems under some system of international control. If Mr. Khrushchev is willing to discuss that proposal seriously, he can rest assured that he will have a summit conference before too many months have passed.

As Our Readers See It

Meat Inspection

I have read the article by John Mika in your issue of February 14.

As a producer of meat for consumption in this area I heartily endorse the suggestion that inspection of meat for the benefit of the public health should be instituted. Less than one month ago I received a visit at my slaughterhouse from provincial health authorities making a routine tour of inspection and I am pleased to find no adverse comment has reached me concerning my establishment.

One passage in Mr. Mika's report does disturb me, namely: "Several persons close to the situation believe that a certain amount of bad meat is being sold here."

I think this statement may be harmful if left unqualified since it is likely to disturb the relationship of supplier and customer and this should not occur on a statement of belief without facts and figures in support of it. Those of us who operate our businesses carefully and conscientiously to supply the public with good food may be damaged in the gaining of our livelihood by this general and rather vague observation.

I hope that Mr. Mika will see fit to refer to the matter more explicitly and fully in a future article.

The public may depend upon the whole-hearted support of those of us who are trying to do a good job in this field. We welcome a proper inspection service for the good of the whole community.

"Everybody Wants to Go"

WHEN it comes to pioneering, I'm strictly a half-hearted dilettante.

There was a time, though, when I figuratively breathed the rare air of frozen hills in the Klondyke. I was imaginatively one of the boys by the bar when Dan McGrew got his. I felt the spell of the Yukon. I almost saw a four-pronged buck a-swaying. I warmed my spiritual hands at the door of the firebox where they "cremated" Sam McGee.

Stott

By the time I was ten I could recite "There are strange things done in the midnight sun by the men who mull for gold," right down to the line where Sam said, "Please close the door."

A few of the older men who visited our house had been to the Yukon seeking gold. They talked of Tex Rickard and other notables. Later I read about "Klondyke Kate."

Then, two or three years ago, a young man of exceptional talent tossed all my cherished dreams of that country and its characters onto the ash heap.

When Pierre Berton finished with Robert Service—exposed him as a mountebank—on page 120 of his book, all I had left was a handful of ashes, a mouthful of mould.

So perished the grandeur and the glory created by an itinerant rhymester of an earlier day. And with it died my personal interest in a spectacular part of our country, one of the last frontiers.

Legends can be destroyed, but quite a lot else is often broken in the process.

Now Mr. Berton is looking enthusiastically forward to the Dawson City Gold Rush Festival.

"It is so wacky, so unlikely, so off-beat," he says, "that everybody wants to go."

Mr. Berton isn't quite right. I can forego the trip. My broken dreams of the Yukon lie just where Mr. Berton put them. He showed me how badly I'd been hoaxed in the weaving of them. I don't want to be reminded of what a sucker I was.

Anybody with a grain of wit, of course, will realize that the authentic story of the gold rush told by Mr. Berton contains every bit as much excitement as the rhymes of Mr. Service.

But I'm not even enthusiastic over the report that a Broadway company has signed contracts to take big name stars in the entertainment field up there to premiere a rewrite of Ben Jonson's "Volpone" with music. The much-ballyhooed "Alaskans" of TV exploitation sort of chilled me off on that general locale, though I took a transient fancy to Dorothy Provine.

My attitude, admittedly, is very unfair. I've thrown the baby out with the used bath water. I've lost my interest in a territory that once captured and held my imagination. I'm sore because I liked Service's jingles and the myths they created. And I had admired Service because he never pretended to be a poet.

But I can't help feeling a bit cheated because such a thorough debunking job was done on him.

Not that I hadn't some doubts about the feasibility of that Sam McGee story. But accept as a fact the statement that "Songs of a Sourdough" were written before Service saw the Klondyke. What's wrong with that?

As far as that goes, I doubt very much that my old friend Sam Coleridge ever got to Canada.

No 'Fast Buck' Policy With Dollar by Canada

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — Louis Rasminsky, governor of the Bank of Canada, today faced the task of convincing the world's central banking organization that Canada is not seeking any unfair advantage with her floating dollar exchange rate.

Rasminsky, member of the International Monetary Fund's 18-man executive, represented Canada as the executive opened an extensive discussion of Canadian financial policies and their bearing on Canada's foreign trade and financial relations with other countries.

Discussions were cloaked in secrecy but informants said a growing number of the fund's executive directors believe Canada should abide by fund rules and return her dollar to a pegged rate, approved by the fund executive. Rasminsky declined to make any comment. He conferred with a number of the directors privately Thursday. There were reports he would seek to repeat the government view that changes in the Canadian dollar exchange rate are moderate and within a range acceptable to the fund. Several prominent fund directors, representing countries in Asia and Europe, have rejected this view.

Canada, which at one time held her dollar at a fixed discount of about 10 per cent in relation to U.S. currency, set her dollar free in 1950 as a "temporary" move to offset a heavy inflow of foreign capital. The dollar started to climb to par and then to a premium of as much as 1 per cent in terms of U.S. currency.

Last year the government announced action to use official reserves of gold and U.S. dollars to depress the exchange rate to a discount. But the dollar seemed to drop more rapidly than apparently the government anticipated. There were reports it had to use its reserves last month to study and support the rate to prevent a sudden large deterioration. The current discount is a little less than 6 per cent.

Some of the fund directors took note of the fact that W. Earle McLaughlin, president of the Royal Bank of Canada, has accused the government of adopting a manipulated floating rate. Finance Minister Donald Fleming denied this, saying this description is "quite unfair."

When the government established its new monetary policy last June, Rasminsky made an appearance before the fund executive to explain Canadian policy. Last July fund executive members suggested it was time Canada returned to a pegged rate but Rasminsky gave no indication the advice would be accepted.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

'Keep Britain Great'

LONDON—Anyone can book Trafalgar Square to hold a meeting.

Even someone from neighboring Canada House can get in touch with the Ministry of Works and, provided they feel it's for a genuine cause, he'll be granted permission to climb up there among the lions at the foot of Nelson's Column and say his piece.

This has come to light through a fast move pulled on the bomb-squatters, the Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament, by a 29-year-old clerk from Cheam, Surrey.

He and his chums were in a pub discussing how fed up they were with the trouble and inconvenience caused by the Ban the Bomb sit-down demonstration at Trafalgar Square and elsewhere. With another big demonstration being lined up for Easter Monday at Trafalgar Square, they felt they would be doing the public a service if they forestalled it in some way.

So the young clerk, R. C. Gleaves by name, called the Ministry of Works and asked whether he could hold a meeting there on Easter Monday.

Certainly, they said, yours is the first application and our rule is first come first served.

But when they asked him the name of his organization, that was a bit of a poser for Gleaves, seeing as how it hadn't gone beyond a chat with his friends at the "local." But on the spur of the moment he said he was secretary of the Keep Britain Great Campaign.

So—the Keep Britain Great campaigners get Trafalgar Square; much to the annoyance of the Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament.

Meanwhile, the phone at the home of self-appointed Secretary Gleaves of the Keep Britain Great Campaign has been jammed with calls from people who want to know precisely what the campaign is all about and can they join. He is expected to have those details sorted out by the time Easter Monday comes along.

A complication, of course, is that he can't write to them because of the current go-slow of Britain's Post Office workers.

This has been going on in Britain since New Year's Day, and it has had the effect of making a lot of people very angry indeed.

If the postmen have a case, they say, let them go out on an honest strike and get the whole thing over with.

Mounted Police In Training To Fight Jobless?

An MLA said Thursday he was afraid mounted police with nightsticks are being trained to deal with the unemployed instead of Vancouver rowdies.

Arthur Turner (NDP-CCF—Vancouver East) told the legislature he had seen pictures of public demonstrations of mounted police in action and of police dogs.

He said he was afraid the rehearsals weren't just to amuse the public but to instill fear.

"It doesn't need mounted police with nightsticks to handle a few rowdies on Granville Street Saturday night. I only hope it's not to handle unemployed if the situation gets too bad."

Cesspools is an unparliamentary word in B.C.

The decision was made by Speaker Hugh Shantz after Health Minister Eric Martin let it slip, then hastily corrected himself.

He was attacking the Opposition for its criticism of the government.

People who criticized the homeowner grant were "cutting off their noses to spite their face," he said.

"These cesspools . . ." he went on . . . "No, Mr. Speaker, I mean . . . they get too personal."

"That is an improper word," said Mr. Shantz.

"That's right, Mr. Speaker, that's why I didn't use it," said Mr. Martin.

Lillooet MLA Don Robinson lurched into the House on crutches and a sprained ankle, but oratorically he had the agility of a springbok.

Hardly pausing for breath and leaping from crag to crag in a verbal defile aimed across the floor from the Social Credit benches he touched on:

Taxes, the little man, the big business man, political hoaxes, the federal government, the Opposition, the United Nations, international policy, and other subjects, all delivered in a high-pitched harangue.

Then he accused the NDP-CCF and Liberal members of "yacking."

Replying to Liberal leader Ray Perrault's allegations on provincial debt—$771 per capita despite government denial of debt—the Lillooet member said:

"Anyone who goes around saying this province has a direct debt is making a deliberate attempt to embarrass this province."

Then he admitted the intricacies of the budget address were too complicated for him to understand because he, like most of the members, is of average intelligence.

Legislation was introduced to save the wounds of Saanich and the Capital Improvement District Commission and remove an obstacle to the go-ahead on beautification of the Douglas Street approaches to Victoria.

Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black introduced an amendment to the CIDC Act allowing the commission to enter into agreements with municipal councils on beautification projects.

Saanich had refused to sign an agreement with Victoria and the CIDC banning parking along Douglas Street unless there was legal authority.

With assurance that the legislation would be introduced at the current session, council signed the agreement; and the project—to cost $180,000—will go ahead this spring.

U.K. Doctors Want Taxes On Cigarettes Increased

LONDON (Reuters) — British doctors intend to ask the government to slap a heavy additional tax on cigarettes to discourage people from smoking, newspapers here say.

But the doctors would let the public down gently by calling for cuts in the tax on cigars and pipe tobacco which they regard as much less likely to cause lung cancer and chronic bronchitis.

The newspapers claimed these recommendations will be made in a much-awaited report on smoking and health by a committee of the Royal College of Physicians to be published here March 7, just about a month before the national budget.

According to the reports the committee, solidly backing those opposed to cigarette smoking, suggested heavy smokers should at the most puff only half a cigarette and so lessen the amount of tobacco tar entering the lungs.

HEAVILY TAXED

Cigarettes already are one of the most heavily taxed consumer items in Britain. Average price of a pack of 20 unfiltered cigarettes is the equivalent of 63 cents.

The physicians also suggested that filter tips can be made more effective.

They said statistics suggested a man's risk of dying between the ages of 35 and 45 is one in 23 for a heavy smoker compared with one in 90 for a non-smoker.

But the experts failed to explain why the most heavy smokers do not contract lung cancer and admitted they have no proof the death rate among smokers is entirely due to the habit.

The report, in which the Royal College of Physicians will stress the need for general discouragement of smoking, will be submitted to Health Minister Enoch Powell.

NO OVER-ALL LOSS

Removal of Tolls
Asked by Rhodes

B.C. could wipe out bridge and tunnel tolls without decreasing over-all revenues, the legislature was told Thursday by Delta member James Rhodes (NDP-CCF).

"Increase efficiency in the highways department and you will save $4,000 a year," he said.

There were only 3.9 million dollars in revenues last year, Mr. Rhodes said, noting a decline of about $50,000 per month for Fraser-Delta and Burrard Inlet systems alone.

"It is time for the government to remove tolls from all bridges and tunnels in B.C. You don't need to decrease revenue elsewhere," the member said.

He pointed out the "cost" of removing tolls would be less than half the amount the government estimated it would raise by increased gasoline tax.

MORE THAN TOLLS

"I would hazard a guess that if the government removed tolls, the increased revenue from gasoline tax created by motorists who would now use their cars more, would net a greater revenue presently raised by tolls.

4TH CONVICTION

Lovers' Tiff
Blamed
By Speeder

A youth who was chased by Saanich police along the Patricia Bay Highway at speeds up to 90 miles an hour told officers who stopped him he'd had an argument with his girl friend.

Kent F. Henley, 1114 Merchant Place, was fined $50 and had his licence suspended when he pleaded guilty in Saanich police court Thursday to speeding.

FOURTH TIME

Court was told it was his fourth speeding conviction since March, 1960.

In addition, Magistrate William Ostler fined him $40 for altering his driver's licence by erasing the word "minor" and $20 for being a minor in possession of liquor.

Vancouver Island and British Columbia became one colony Nov. 17, 1866.

CARDINAL MUENCH
... third in 10 daysU.S. Cardinal
Muench Dead

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The death of Aloisius Cardinal Muench, the third cardinal to die within 10 days, heightened expectations today that Pope John soon will call a consistory to replenish the college of cardinals.

Vatican sources said the Pope may raise the college's membership to an all-time high before Easter to bulwark it for the heavy work of the Roman Catholic Church's ecumenical council opening here Oct. 11.

Cardinal Muench, 72-year-old Wisconsin-born former bishop of Fargo, N.D., and the only U.S. cardinal in the Vatican curia, died in Rome's Salvador Mundi Hospital Thursday night.

Let's Solve Space Problem
In Stomachs First—Turner

A seven-point plan to relieve unemployment was proposed in the legislature Thursday by Arthur Turner, NDP-CCF member for Vancouver East.

He said that industry has demonstrated that with all its high-priced help it can't solve the mounting problem of unemployment. People now have to turn to government for leadership.

Mr. Turner noted that the U.S. had spent $400,000,000 on its manned space flight plan.

"I would suggest that a fellow with a space problem in his stomach hasn't got much interest in trips to the moon," he said.

His plan includes:

General raising of educational standards to create more professional men;

Wider distribution of purchasing power;

A shorter work week;

Strict limitations on overtime;

Retaining of workers into trades where there are shortages;

More capital works of social value;

Encouragement of secondary industry through an industrial development fund.

IN CARBOO

An ideal task for the industrial fund, Mr. Turner suggested, would be to establish new meat packing and slaughtering plants in B.C.

The government had shown concern about this industry, said Mr. Turner. It should consider aiding new plants in the Cariboo country where much of B.C.'s cattle is raised.

"Why lose the industry to B.C.? If private capital is not prepared to get going, it might require government participation to get started with the abattoirs and packing plants."

All-Out Health Plan
Ill-Advised — Senator

OTTAWA (CP)—A medical doctor said in the Senate Thursday that any federal government would be ill-advised to establish an all-embracing plan of medical insurance.

Dr. F. W. Gershaw (L-Alberta) said in the Senate throne speech debate that doctors are hesitant about going into any plan of socialized medicine.

The medical profession, he said, believes that while there are certain aspects of medical services in which tax-supported programs are necessary "a tax-supported comprehensive program, compulsory for all, is neither necessary nor desirable."

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP)—A stubborn, smouldering fire in a downtown business-apartment block which caused damage estimated at $200,000 and left 75 persons homeless, was put out Wednesday after firemen fought it for 12 hours.

TYPICAL BALI WELCOME FOR KENNEDY COUPLE

DENPASAR, Indonesia (AP)—Bare-breasted, giggling girls welcomed the Robert Kennedys to Bali Thursday.

A hundred dancers performed and looped leis of orchids around the Kennedys in the traditional Balinese reception ceremony.

The United States attorney-general and his wife, Ethel, were in for an overnight sightseeing visit to this fertile island, described in the travel folders as a land of love and laughter.

SUPERB PERFORMANCE AT A NEW LOW PRICE... GALAXIE

It handles, rides, lasts, looks like a car costing far more. The look is Thunderbird inspired—beautifully apparent in the Thunderbird-inspired roofline, the proud sweep of the rear deck, the luxurious interiors.

And as for its quiet, smooth performance—the Ford Mileage Maker Six Engine makes it possible! It's a new kind of six-cylinder performance coupled with outstanding economy—a smoothness you've never known before—a hushed quiet that results from the Mileage Maker's self-adjusting valves. Here is the power, the response, the durability that you have always wanted in a six cylinder engine. And it's available with Ford's famous Cruise-O-Matic 3-speed automatic transmission.

The '62 Galaxie comes in two series: the Galaxie and the Galaxie/500, both of which are available with a choice of two powerful, famous Thunderbird V-8 engines or the Mileage Maker Six. Both series bring you Ford's famous twice-a-year maintenance features. And your Ford Dealer gives you a warranty for 12 months or 12,000 miles, whichever comes first. Price a Galaxie this week!

WHAT DID THEY SAY SKI SPEED LIMIT IS?

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Want a job as ski cop?
Bavarian state police announced that the same rules that apply to motorized traffic would be used to increase the safety of the ski slopes. The penalties also will be the same—fines and jail sentences.
Police added that skiing had become a mass sport in the Bavarian Alps in the past decade and that slope hogs, skiers travelling at excessive speeds and even tipsy skiers now are not uncommon.

COLLEGE GRID RIGHTS BRING RECORD TV FEE

NEW YORK (AP)—The Columbia Broadcasting System agreed Thursday to pay a phenomenal $10,200,000 during the next two years for the rights to televise the football games of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, making it the highest single fee ever paid for a sports package.

The remarkable coup gave CBS the two biggest plums in sports television. The network signed a $9,300,000 contract last month for the exclusive rights to the regular season games of the National Football League.

Both contracts will expire after the 1963 season.

SPORTS DIARY

By JIMMY CANNON

NEW YORK — The man said Babe Hamburger was in the hospital. It's difficult to imagine Babe laid up in bed because he spends most of the time of his life doing small favors for people. He means Ebbets Field and the Dodgers to me, more than any player. He was on their payroll when Wilbert Robinson managed them and he ran their Brooklyn office after they pulled out for Los Angeles.

Babe was a batboy, a clubhouse attendant, a public address announcer, the road secretary, assistant ticket manager and finally an odd-jobs man. The players liked him and he kept their secrets until they died or left baseball. Once someone mentioned Grover Alexander and what a pitcher he was.

"You're telling me," Babe said. "He would pitch with a load on and you'd never know it. I was the visiting clubhouse boy when he was in the league and, for some reason, he'd always pitch the last game of a doubleheader. He'd send me out for a pint of whisky while the last game was going on. He'd sit there and drink it and then go out and shut us out."

He Couldn't Follow Hoyt's Advice

One of his close friends was Hack Wilson. "One time we're training in Miami," Babe said. "I met Hack in the lobby of the hotel. He's wearing a tux and he's got his bag on. He must have been stood up by a broad or something. Anyway, he says we're going to a night club. It was a joint built around a swimming pool and you ate on the terraces.

"They started off with a swimming show and some divers went off the terraces. Hack is watching them, eating his steak. The show's over when Hack stands up. 'Tux and all, he dives off the terrace and into the pool. Just like that, without saying anything. He's dripping wet and just says the cheque and we leave.'"

On his first trip as the road secretary, Waite Hoyt, the pitcher, sat down beside him in a Pullman and gave him some advice.

"Babe," said the old Yankee who finished up with the Dodgers, "you got a good job now. Tell the ballplayers to call you by your right name. Don't let them call you Hamburger."

"My real name is Hamburger," replied Babe.

The headwaiter in the dining room at the Edgewater Beach Hotel in Chicago was weary of being ribbed on the phone. He had been persecuted by a practical joker for a month before the Dodgers checked in. A reporter, searching for Babe, called the restaurant.

"Mr. Hamburger, there?" the newspaperman asked. "Go to hell," the maître d' shouted and hung up.

The journalist called back.

"Look," he said, "put Mr. Hamburger on the phone."

"Mr. Hamburger," the headwaiter said, "is on the fire."

The big pitcher then was Van Lingle Mungo. He was until Dixie Walker came to Brooklyn, the most popular of all Dodgers.

"They never mention Van's name," said Babe. "You think he was the only man in the world with an arm on him. The time he had the sore shoulder, people'd stop on the street every place I went. They all said the same thing: 'How's the arm?' Everybody in Brooklyn would of known who they meant."

Once Mungo busted in on Jimmy Bucher and Woody English late one night in St. Louis. Afterwards, the room was wrecked and Mungo had a bruised eye. Burell Grimes, who managed the team that year, fined Mungo $1,000. But he couldn't suspend him because he was short of pitchers. The next stop was Pittsburgh and a photographer phoned Mungo from the hotel lobby.

"I want to take a picture of your black eye," the cameraman said.

"That'll cost you a thousand dollars," Mungo told him.

"A thousand dollars," said the photographer. "Why?"

"That's what it cost me to get it," Mungo said.

Mungo Depressed By Lopez Trade

Mungo was depressed when Al Lopez was traded up to the Boston Braves. He disliked Babe Phelps who became the first-line catcher. It was Mungo's habit to come into the diner on the trains and talk to anyone who was sitting at the table with Phelps.

"This club can't win," the pitcher would say, glaring at Phelps, "unless we get a catcher."

There was a lot of drinking on that club.

"It's the only ball club I've ever seen," said Hoyt, "where the writers are always straightening out the ballplayers."

The journalists didn't miss many rounds either. Couple of them vanished on the way north. For three days I filed a news story of the game and a page of notes for both my colleagues. One of them showed up in Jacksonville and I blearily denounced him as a phony friend. I explained I had telegraphed the news and the notes for the both of them under their bylines.

"Yeah," grumbled the lush, "but you gave him all the good notes."

Floyd Isn't Interested In NBA Part of Title

NEW YORK (AP)—World heavyweight boxing champion Floyd Patterson says he will defend his title in June. He says he will announce the name of his opponent "probably within three or four days, certainly within a week."

The formal announcement of the bout will be made at a press conference in New York, Patterson said. His disclosure immediately stirred speculation as to whether his opponent might be Sonny Liston of Philadelphia.

"One point should be stressed," Patterson said. "It has nothing to do with the NBA (National Boxing Association) as to whom I fight next. I'm not interested in their part of the championship."

Patterson knocked out Tom McNeely of Boston in Toronto last December. However,

Will Russia Do a Late Switch?

... MOSCOW WILL RECONSIDER

NEW YORK (AP)—North American hockey officials had their fingers crossed today with the hope Russia would reverse its decision not to compete in the world amateur championships in Colorado Springs, Colo., March 1-18.

Thayer Tutt of Colorado Springs, chairman of the tournament's organizing committee, said "I still think there's a chance they will come."

"We're going to try and get them to reconsider. We're doing everything possible."

The Russians announced Thursday the decision to withdraw, a move that is likely to lead to a complete Communist boycott of the competition. The terse announcement by the Soviet Ice Hockey Federation was published in Moscow by Tass, the official Soviet news agency.

It came after weeks of speculation touched off by refusal of the Allied travel bureau in West Berlin to grant necessary travel permits to the East Germans. The bureau's refusal was labelled a "disgraceful act of political discrimination" against East Germany by Vassili Nepeskiy, head of the Soviet Ice Hockey Federation.

Originally, 18 nations entered the tournament. Of these, official entries have not been received from Russia, Czechoslovakia, East Germany and Romania. Czechoslovakia was runner-up to champion Canada in last year's championships in Switzerland, and Russia third. The entry deadline is Sunday. Robert LeBel, president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, said in Montreal that after Sunday "we have to presume they are not coming and will re-arrange the schedule accordingly." Those teams will be missed. There's no getting around that."

Nepeskiy attacked LeBel for refusing to move the tournament to another site and protested "against the intrusion of the advocates of the cold war into the international co-operation of athletes..."

"There's no reason to move the tournament," LeBel countered, adding that if the Russians believe in "international co-operation... let them come and play hockey..."

GETTING KICK OUT OF IT

'Play It Clean' Says Milligan

Some of the more rabid customers are hanging the "revenge" tag on Saturday's Pacific Coast Soccer League game between Victoria United and Vancouver Firefighters.

But it isn't that way with Wally Milligan, the United manager.

"Those things are best forgotten," he says, referring to last week's rough Anderson Cup final in which Firefighters beat United 5-2.

SPRY KNOWS

Milligan says he won't go into the advice offered by New Westminster's Jack Spry. One of Milligan's best friends, Spry felt Firefighters' rough play had a lot to do with the final outcome.

"You're just not used to that sort of play," Spry is remembered as saying. "If they lean on you, lean back."

"My boys," said Milligan this morning, "are going to be told to play soccer. That's still the best way to beat any team."

DOUBTFUL STARTERS

Milligan's major worry at the moment is the condition of three players: Centre half Bob Mars, inside Volker Soldt and outside wing Tommy Major are classed as doubtful starters until game time (2 p.m.) Saturday.

Both Soldt and Major, Milligan feels, will probably play. Mars presents the big worry. The centre half was to have another inspection made today of his ailing back.

Royals Advance

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Chilliwack All-Stars forfeited Wednesday night's second game of the Pacific Coast junior hockey semi-final, allowing New Westminster Royals to advance into the finals at Nanaimo Saturday.

Old Pro's Advice Sets Rousseau Up

By Canadian Press

A bit of advice from an old pro was all rookie Bobby Rousseau needed to cash in Thursday night on that once-rare play, the penalty shot.

It wouldn't really have mattered much, as Rousseau's penalty shot goal was the ninth in a 9-1 slaughter by Montreal Canadiens of the lowly Boston Bruins. Canadiens are in first place in the National Hockey League, now 11 points ahead of second-place Toronto.

Rousseau had a short talk with his team captain Jean Beliveau, who advised him to take a long shot rather than try to fake out goalie Bruce Gamble. Rousseau skated in slowly from the blueline, stopped dead, and blasted a booming slapshot from 25 feet out. It was in the net before Gamble moved.

Lower down the ranks Detroit's Norm Ullman shot the winning goal in a 4-3 victory over New York Rangers, a victory that tied Detroit for fourth place—the league's last playoff spot—with the Rangers.

Detroit also has a game in hand over the Rangers.

SCORES 30TH GOAL

In Montreal, Boston seemed to be in the game for only a little while—to be exact, until 10:46 of the first period when Claude Provost scored his 30th goal of the year. Then came the deluge.

Don Marshall scored less than a minute later. When Boston's Ed Westfall was banished to the penalty box, Bernie Geoffrion potted one.

Ralph Backstrom followed it up within 20 seconds, and Bill Hicke added another 10 seconds before the period ended.

Facing a 5-0 deficit when they came back for the second round, the Bruins were slapped down immediately. They had a one-man advantage over Montreal when Rousseau broke away alone and made it 6-0 only 43 seconds after the start of the second period. At 3:42, Dickie Moore made it 7-0.

Westfall scored on a long blower shot at 10:30 before Henri Richard increased the lead to 8-1 at 14:15.

SEVENTH OF SEASON

Rousseau's penalty shot, the seventh this season, was awarded in the third period after Boston's Gerry Toppazzini and Doug Mohns hauled down Rousseau from behind as he went on another typical breakaway.

Delvecchio and Howe were right on Thursday, however, as Delvecchio scored one goal and assisted on two and Howe assisted on three in Detroit's important win.

Rangers brought back dependable regular goalie Lorne Worsley for the game, but lost on Ullman's power-play goal at 6:24 of the third period. Worsley, recovered from injuries, replaced substitute Marcel Paille. Ullman scored while Pete Goegan was sitting in the penalty box, which may shed some light on why Detroit recently traded Goegan to New York.

SECOND FOR JEFFREY

New York's Johnny Wilson and Delvecchio traded first period goals and power plays and each side a goal in the second period. Rookie Larry Jeffrey scored his second goal in his second NHL game—he was brought up to Detroit from Edmonton because of injuries to MacGregor—at 16:10 while New York's Irv Spencer was penalized.

Detroit went ahead on a goal by defenceman Bill Gadsby, and then Dean Prentice connected for New York at 19:35, while Gadsby was penalized.

Guy Gendron scored his 11th goal of the season to tie the game 3-3 at 2:29 of the third period before Ullman broke it up.

SOLUTION MONDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Danny Thomas was the hero of the great testimonial given by the Jewish Theatrical Guild—and Joey Bishop arose and remarked, "He sits there in all his modesty under a picture bigger than my living room..."

The "humility" of the former Toledo newsboy who got disgracefully rich was a good theme for their kidding.

"He's one of the few businessmen who owns his own chain of comedians," Joey Bishop went on. "I want to thank you, Danny, for getting me my own television show, and ruining my life. DANNY, CAN'T YOU STAY AWAKE? FM TALKING TO YOU!"

Milton Berle leaped up. "When I first saw him in Chicago, I knew he had something—and I wrote it down," he said.

Jan Murray swore that Danny's dimples are painted on; that he's allergic to comedians, and that he signs them up for their own TV series in his company to get them out of the way. George Jessel told Molly Picon she'd told some funny stories—but why hadn't she mentioned Danny Thomas?

George chided everybody for talking too lengthily about Danny.

"Abraham Lincoln couldn't have taken more than two minutes, even if he stuttered, to deliver the Gettysburg Address, and I'm sure he's as important as Lebanese comedian," George scolded.

Then they got mellow. Milton Berle told Danny, "You are 'Mr. Television,'" and Danny said back, "No one will ever be 'Mr. Television' but Milton Berle."

It was one of the biggest, warmest tributes in my years around Broadway. Danny himself brought out that maybe it wouldn't have happened if he'd had his long nose bobbed. He mentioned that several years ago when he had a $1,200,000 MGM movie offer, contingent upon a nose-chop, his friend and agent, Abe Lastfogel, said "I don't want you to touch that beautiful face of yours!" What if he had?

THE MIDNIGHT EARL...

Art Linkletter'll probably do two weeks of Jack Paar replacement... Radie Harris is saddened over the loss of a gold cigarette case inscribed "To Radie from Gertrude Lawrence"... What kind of a shower could anybody give Bobo Rockefeller? Mrs. Irving Mansfield just gave her a luncheon (and "refreshments")... Harry Snow, the great young singer at the Pierre, appears, a natural for a Bobby Morse national company spot... Pretty Noelle Adam (Mrs. Sydney Chaplin) has a song written for her in French by Richard Rodgers in "No Strings." She plays a delightfully disheveled photographer's assistant.

Joan Collins, in a blonde wig, was unrecognized at the Peppermint Lounge with mad thing Laurence Harvey (later they went back to L.A.—separately)... Charles Laughlin's at the hospital for special surgery here after that bathtub fall... They cheered Robert Goulet when he came into El Morocco (with Carol Lawrence) after the Lerner and Loewe telecast.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH:

With income tax time approaching, a Washingtonian told Les Carpenter: "Of course George Washington never told a lie—but he never filed a Form 1040, either!"

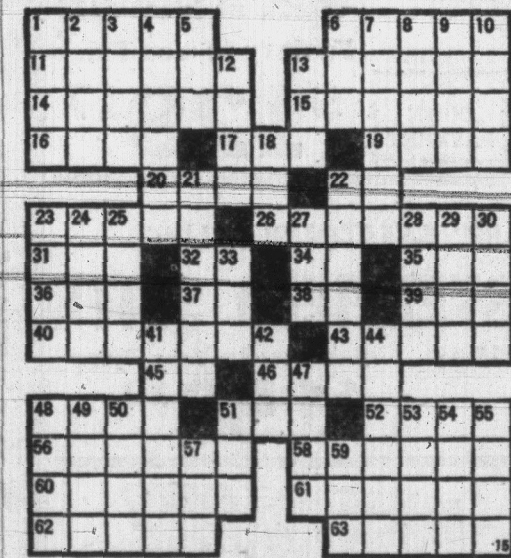

WISH I'D SAID THAT:

Temptation is like some TV commercials—often deceptive, and usually very expensive.—Rotaphor.

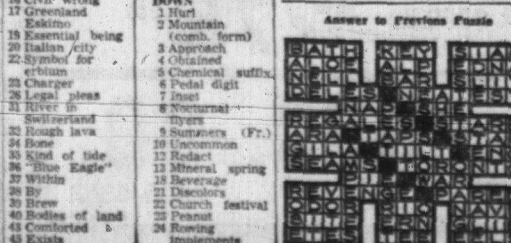

EARL'S PEARLS:

Sign outside a church: "Avoid the Easter rush—attend church now."
Taffy Tuttle returned from a vacation resort, and reports things were so dull that she had to pick-up her own gloves... That's earl, brother.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other attractive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Don McGovern, age 12, of Portland, Me., for his question:

Does the Air Weigh Anything?

The air seems to be a filmy nothing and most of the time we forget it exists. You might never guess that the air in an empty shoe box can be weighed or that the air in your classroom weighs several hundred pounds. The air, of course, is a blanket of gases enfolding the earth and it reaches to perhaps a thousand miles above our heads. Its total weight is many billions of tons.

Imagine an empty square box, one foot in height and width and length. The cubic foot of air inside this other-wise empty box weighs a little more than an ounce. This is not surprising when you remember that air is made of gases and gases are made of atoms and molecules. The solid earth, the seas and all objects in the whole universe also are made from atoms and molecules, and it is these small particles of matter which give weight to a substance.

Man Squeezed by 14 Tons

Three and a half miles above sea level, our column of air will weigh about half this much—which means that half the bulk of the atmosphere is packed into a dense layer three and a half miles deep at the surface of the globe. If we weigh our column of air seven miles above the ground, its weight is cut in half again. This air weight is called atmospheric pressure and it varies not only with height but also to some extent with weather conditions. Allowing for slight variations, the atmospheric pressure on the body of a man at sea level is just about 14 tons.

We live our daily lives under this terrific weight of the atmosphere and never notice it. We move this way and that through our ocean of air without effort. But the air only seems to be such a filmy nothing because we have never known life without it. Our bodies are used to it, the muscles are strong enough to cope with it and the body fluids are strong enough to prevent the pressure of air from crushing in upon us.

How much does the sun weigh?

Andy sends a Hammond's Library World Atlas to Thomas Roundtree, age 12, of Brookhaven, Miss., for his question:

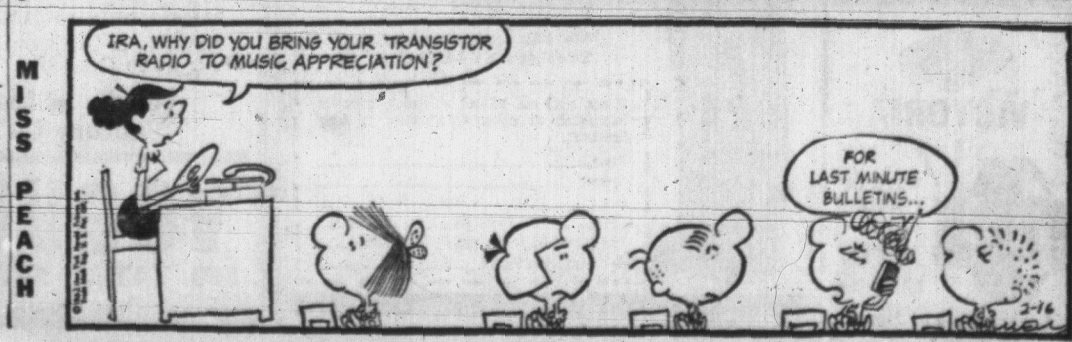

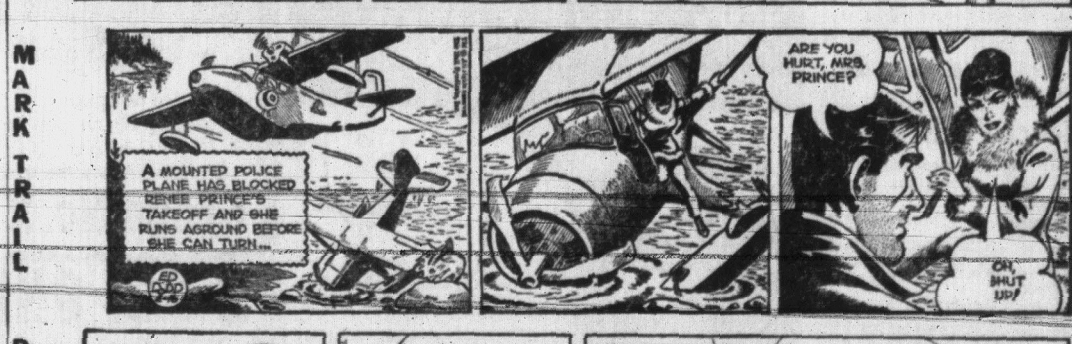

How much does the sun weigh?

The weight of the sun in tons is a staggering figure. You can write it down as 2,194,759 and then add 21 zeros to this number. We also can say that the total weight of our star is more than two million sextillion tons. Of course this is a mere estimate, an educated guess, and the sun may be several billion tons lighter or heavier than this figure. But this variation could be compared to your gaining or losing a couple of ounces.

In size, the sun is big enough to swallow our globe more than a million times. But when it comes to weight, our world is more solid. It would take only about 300,000 earth-sized planets to equal the weight of our giant sun. What's more, our little earth is heavier for its size than any other object in the Solar System.

Recent reports of widespread sale of contaminated meat in Ontario have touched off concern across the nation. Efforts in Greater Victoria have resumed to obtain inspection of locally-slaughtered meat. This four-part series outlines the scope of the local problem and some of its other aspects.

By JOHN MIKA

PART 3

Greater Victoria is one of the few major Canadian centres without meat inspection protection for its citizens.

The reasons are varied—ranging through consumer apathy, farmer suspicion, politicians' buck-passing and ineffective campaigning by health officials.

Across the strait, the lower mainland region is protected by meat inspection bylaws which prohibit the sale of uninspected meat.

Smaller centres like Kelowna, Vernon, Salmon Arm, Kamloops and Prince George also have seen their municipal councils pass bylaws to protect the consumers by prohibiting sale of uninspected meat.

By contrast, the record of backing and filling here is a sorry spectacle—with the exception of Esquimalt.

In 1956, Victoria and Esquimalt councils agreed to a health board request and passed bylaws prohibiting sale of uninspected meat.

After a roar of protest from farmers that nothing should be done until a meat inspection depot was set up, Victoria council turned tail and rescinded the bylaw.

Esquimalt retained its bylaw on the books, although it is not effective.

Aldermen Blame Provincial Gov't

Since 1956, the stock answer of several aldermen to questions about lack of meat inspection is to blame the provincial government.

This ignores the demands for council action, voiced in 1956 by the "Canadian Consumers' Association, Victoria branch; Junior Chamber of Commerce, Victoria and District Parent-Teacher Council, and the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club.

It also ignores the example set by mainland councils in protecting their citizens rather than blaming someone else.

The health department's record in this field is erratic. It launched a strong drive to win meat inspection in 1956 and then just let it peter out after some setbacks.

It launched another major effort in April, 1958, convincing intermunicipal committee to send a delegation to the provincial government to ask for help.

The government replied that it was conducting a province-wide survey on the question so the delegation decided to hold off further action. It's still holding off.

An appeal for some action, made by the Victoria branch of the consumers' organization, and the Ontario scandal uncovering a ring that sold dead animals for slaughter and resale, prompted another drive last year.

But, as an indication of the health department's ambivalent pursuit of the goal, it was the only agency approached by the Times during research for this series that flatly refused to give any co-operation—even to the extent of closing its file on background material.

Reason given was that another report was being prepared.

KEEN INTEREST OF YOUTH in proposed scientific peace research program was demonstrated by this group of high school and Victoria College students who visited Canadian Peace Research Institute information centre, 821 Fort Street, Thursday.

Halt Viet Nam Red Terror

LONDON (AP) — Britain called on Russia today to restrain North Vietnamese Communists from attempts to conquer South Viet Nam by terrorist tactics.

A note outlining the British demand was handed to Soviet Charge d'Affairs A. V. Loginov by Peter Thomas, parliamentary undersecretary at the foreign office. The British communication was in reply to a Soviet note delivered in London, Jan. 10.

Britain denied Communist allegations that U.S. military assistance to South Viet Nam is responsible for the tension in Southeast Asia. The responsibility, Britain said, rests with trouble-making North Vietnamese Communists.

Britain particularly called attention "to the kidnapping and murder by the Communist Viet Cong of Col. Hoang Thuy Nam, chief of the mission charged with relations with the International Control Commission."

ASK PEARSON ABOUT FLAG

Canadian Rebels Speak Up

OTTAWA (CP)—The Revolutionary Movement of Canada has stirred to life again.

The group announced today it will meet Opposition Leader Pearson today "to see if the Liberals will give us a Canadian flag."

A spokesman said a statement earlier this week that the movement has disbanded was not true. He said the group, made up of students who desire a national flag, was "just gathering strength."

The meeting with Mr. Pearson is to determine Liberal policy on the flag issue. In the Commons this week Mr. Pearson said the Union Jack should be kept as a flag for special occasions but a distinctive Canadian flag would be chosen within two years after election of a Liberal government.

The students caused a mild uproar in the Commons last Friday when they rained leaflets on members of Parliament from the general gallery.

Old age pensioners who also receive war veterans' allowances will feel no benefit from the announced increase of $10 per month in old age pensions.

Their veterans' allowance will be reduced by the same amount. A federal veterans' affairs official explained the cut is necessary because the government has not authorized a boost in the maximum income ceiling.

Cuba Trade Draws Fire Of Liberals

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons mill grinds slow but it grinds exceedingly fine.

For more than six years, the Liberals had waited for a chance to get back at the Conservatives for the roasting the Liberals got in January, 1956, for shipping 15 Harvard training planes to Egypt.

They saw an opening Thursday when debate began on a government measure to increase the lending authority of the Export Credits Insurance Corporation to $300,000,000 from $200,000,000.

Paul Martin (L.-Essex East) said Trade Minister Hees owed an explanation to the Commons and the country for permitting export to Cuba of such items as planes, helicopters, aero engines, aircraft parts, dynamite, synthetic rubber, electric transformers, steel pipes and tubes and industrial chemicals.

CLASSIFIED CIVILIAN

Mr. Hees said all these items classified in civilian use and that the government has not permitted export to Cuba of any item on the NATO strategic materials list.

The minister said: "There are a great many articles in everyday use—table knives, for example—which could be used as war materials."

This was reminiscent of a statement by Opposition Leader Pearson, then external affairs minister, on Jan. 24, 1955: "You can put a Bren gun on a bicycle but that doesn't make it into a tank."

On that date, Mr. Pearson disclosed that $2,800,000 worth of Canadian arms, including 25-pounder guns, parts for tanks and Harvard trainers, had been

CURTIS DUBIOUS

Business Bureau Too Costly

Ald. A. J. Curtis said Thursday he doubted that Victoria could afford a Better Business Bureau or that it would be worth its cost.

He made the remarks after city finance committee learned it would require an estimated $9,225 annually to operate a BBB.

Committee tabled the subject pending more information from the Chamber of Commerce which has been asked to investigate the possibility of establishing a bureau.

"I'm not quite sure Victoria is large enough to finance it," said Ald. Curtis. "And I don't know that it would wipe out the problem of transient traders entirely although it might affect it some."

"When a doubtful salesman is at their door, people still might not phone the bureau."

Committee ordered investigation to determine the preferences and physical condition of each of the 26 aged men in Mountain View Home who have to be relocated before implementation of a council decision to close the civic institution.

Request for a city trophy as a prize in one of the classes of the international show planned here by Victoria Gladious Society was referred to the centennial committee.

Committee turned down a suggestion that the city set up an exhibit in the Jaycee Industrial Fair this May because it would cost $1,000.

"It would be a very nice thing but we can use that much money to better advantage elsewhere," said Ald. Curtis.

Rejection was recommended to city council on a request for tax exemption by the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club.

An $85 rebate for park rental charged last year for the Little Grey Cup junior football game was approved after sponsors, the Jaycees, said they had lost money.

Tug Workers Win Two Pay Raises

OTTAWA (CP)—Agreement on a two-stage wage increase has settled a dispute between the British Columbia Tug Owners' Association and 650 employees, the labor department reported Thursday.

The new contract provides for a 3 per cent pay raise next Oct. 1 and a similar increase Oct. 1, 1963. Current pay rates were not reported.

Conciliation officer G.R. Currie of Vancouver has told the department that all issues have been resolved between the association and the Canadian Merchant Service Guild (CLC) representing the men.

EXODUS of Canada's best brains to the United States and Britain was decried by James Coyne in his first public appearance since he resigned as governor of Bank of Canada. Canadians should find a place at home for their talents, he told graduation banquet at University College in Toronto.

Breakaway Union Loses As 'Ambush' Ruling Fails

A Supreme Court judgment which ruled that a breakaway union was "ambushed" in its attempt to set up in opposition to Local 97, International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Ironworkers, has been set aside by the B.C. Appeal Court here.

The Appeal Court granted an appeal by the Labor Relations Board and Local 97 of the Ironworkers Union against the 1961 judgment of Mr. Justice T. W. Brown in Supreme Court.

This judgment gave the breakaway union—Local 1 of the Canadian Ironworkers Union—the green light for certification by approving a writ claiming a denial of "natural justice."

The writ was granted to Thomas McGrath, business agent for the new union, which was set up after a fight within the 1,100-member Local 97. The Appeal Court, in a written judgment handed down by Mr. Justice C. H. O'Halloran, set aside the writ.

It denied that the new union, when seeking certification before the Labor Relations Board, was "ambushed" or "consciously led into a trap," as implied in the Supreme Court judgment.

Mr. Justice O'Halloran found that the Labor Relations Board "did not abuse or exceed its jurisdiction or fail to exercise its jurisdiction or violate an essential of justice."

He said the board had not misled the union or its counsel. Therefore the Supreme Court was in error in exercising its discretion by approving a writ against the board and Local 97 of the Ironworkers' Union.

Credit Rate Law Planned In Manitoba

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Manitoba government plans to take action that will let buyers know what kind of a deal they are getting into.

The speech from the throne read by Lieutenant-Governor Erick Willis at the opening Thursday said "legislation will be introduced to regulate the manner in which charges made in connection with credit purchase transactions are set forth for the information of the parties to such arrangements."

This was almost the only surprise package in the throne speech outlining the government's legislative program for the new session.

Git-Molgat, leader of the official Liberal opposition, said the government's program seemed to be designed to answer past criticism of government action.

However, Premier Duff Roblin said the measures proposed are part of a government program of constructive development.

Stiff Law Asked On Drunk Driving

(Times News Services)
VANCOUVER — Stiffer laws to curb drinking drivers were urged Thursday by Vancouver city analyst E. J. Fennell.

Mr. Fennell told the traffic section of the B.C. Safety Council that permissible levels of alcohol in the blood should be as clear-cut as speed limits.

He said a level of .05 per cent should be automatic grounds for conviction. At present, breathalyzer readings are accepted in court as corroborative evidence only, with a level of .015 usually accepted as indicating impairment.

CANADA WOULD LOSE

VANCOUVER — Canada would be swallowed without a trace if it agreed to an economic union with the United States, a Vancouver economist said Thursday.

John Davis, director of research and planning for the giant B.C. Electric public utility, told a Chamber of Commerce luncheon that economic union would put Canada in the same position as Hawaii or Alaska—a tail unable to wag the dog.

On the other hand he felt the European common market

20 Million Horses Shot Yuri in Orbit

LONDON (Reuters) — Six rockets with a combined thrust of 20,000,000 horsepower were used to fire Maj. Yuri Gagarin into man's first orbit of the earth last April. Russia's chief space rocket constructor said today.

In an article in the Soviet magazine Aviation and Cosmonautics, quoted by the Tass news agency, the unnamed engineer added that Gagarin's spaceship Vostok I travelled at 28,000 kilometres (about 17,398 miles) an hour.

He wrote: "The characteristics of Soviet rocket engines are substantially better than the American ones. The Soviet Union has successfully solved the problem of heat resistance and endurance."

"The first liquid fuel rocket engine was designed in the Soviet Union in 1930. We may safely predict that the time is approaching when spaceships powered by even more powerful and perfected engines will reach the nearest planets."

presented a golden opportunity for Canada.

LAWYER CONVICTED

VANCOUVER — A lawyer was convicted in police court today of theft of $1,000 from a client.

John B. Kenedy, 38, convicted of stealing the money from Mrs. Phyllis Fanus while acting for her in a property transaction, was remanded to Monday for sentence.

TRAITORS FOR PEACE

VANCOUVER—What might be regarded as a traitors-for-peace plan has been proposed by the head of the Canadian Peace Research Institute as worthy of investigation.

Dr. Norman Alcock said in an interview printed in a Vancouver paper Thursday the plan would involve every country passing a law making it a citizen's duty to report secret arms build-ups to a world authority, probably the United Nations.

DISCRIMINATION FOUND

VANCOUVER — A special committee of the University of British Columbia Senate has found that three campus fraternities have policies which require them to exclude persons from membership on the grounds of racial origin.

The committee, which reported to the Senate Wednesday, did not name the fraternities and a spokesman said they will not be named.

Comox Socred Heads Trading Stamp Inquiry

AUTO CLUB BACKS TISDALLE

Enthusiastic backing for a recommendation made in the legislature by John Tisdalle (SC—Saanich) this week that a new "express" highway be built immediately to link Victoria and the Swartz Bay ferry terminal has come from the Victoria Automobile Club.

Club president W. J. Clark said today his group had been making representations for years stressing the need for a four-lane divided highway.

"The inadequacy of the present road becomes most obvious to any motorist arriving on the Island," Mr. Clark declared. "After driving on mainland highways, the motorist frequently finds himself restricted to 30 miles per hour in 60-mile zones."

Mr. Clark pointed out the need for a better Pat Bay Highway has become more pressing with the government providing hourly service on the Swartz-Tsawwassen route.

On the mainland, he emphasized, the motorist has been provided with excellent highways to Vancouver from Tsawwassen and this highway is being extended to the border.

"The one all-important link, Swartz Bay to Victoria, is all that now remains to be constructed to modern standards to complete this excellent highway system for the lower mainland and the lower island," Mr. Clark concluded.

BRIAN LITTLE ... they weren't kidding

STUDENT LEADER

Kidnapped By Convoy Of Co-Eds

By LESLIE MILLIN
Times College Correspondent
"I knew that there were plans afoot to kidnap me," says Victoria College student president Brian Little, "but I didn't know they were really going to go through with it."

"I thought they were just kidding," Little made his way back to Victoria late Thursday night from Vancouver after being spirited away by members of Victoria College's Women's Undergraduate Society as one of their projects for Twirp Week, the traditional week of upside down activities as women usurp the masculine role for five days.

BOUND, GAGGED

Descending on him as he was enjoying his morning coffee break Thursday, five co-eds bound, gagged and blindfolded him, and carried him away to Vancouver by ferry with one of their number going along to make sure he got there.

"The first time I knew what had happened was on the ferry," says Little. "It was most embarrassing. The vice-principal of the college was also going over, and I couldn't think of one really plausible explanation of why we were there."

Once in Vancouver, the hostage was taken to the University of British Columbia, where he was shown around the campus by officials of the student government there.

Twirp Week officially ends tonight, with the crowning of the Campus Queen and the Bachelor of the Year at a dance to which the women must invite men, and pay all expenses.

Man Charged After Rash Of Break-Ins

Thieves were looking but didn't find. Five downtown business premises were hit overnight in a rash of burglaries, but in only one was anything stolen.

The five: B.A. Service Station, 475 Gorge Road; Medical Building Clinic, 1053 Fort Street; Paul's Sussex Cafe, 1007 Douglas Street; Andrea's Repair Shop, 547 John Street; Maycock Barber Shop, Douglas and Burnside.

An undetermined amount of money was stolen in the Sussex Cafe break-in. It was from a cigarette vending machine.

DOOR FORCED

The break-in was accomplished through a rear door which was forced. Police were checking a number of articles, including an empty cash box, for fingerprints.

In the B.A. Service burglary a suspect was arrested. James Edward Cousins appeared in court this morning and was remanded a week without plea. Bail of $500 was set.

No entry was gained at the Medical Clinic where pins were removed from a rear door.

In the Andrea's shop burglary the front door was smashed and an attempt was made to cut burglary alarm wires.

The glass front door of the Maycock barber shop also was smashed but nothing was taken here, either.

A total of $50 was stolen from the Princess Mary restaurant vessel early Thursday morning when two men pried open a cash register and broke open two cigarette machines.

SAW TWO MEN

Island Tug and Barge watchman A. Chisholm phoned police when he saw two men in the premises. He said one was crawling along the floor.

A dial on a safe in the restaurant was knocked off and a door to an upper deck office had been smashed in.

Police believe the men made their way into the old ship by way of a door off the roof. They have taken tools and other accessories from the restaurant.

Woman Hurt, Heavy Damage To Two Cars

A woman was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital this morning with injuries suffered as a result of a two-car crash at Fernwood Road and Haultain Street.

Mrs. Eva Tuson, 148 West Gorge Road, received minor injuries to her arms and left side when the car her husband, Ernest Tuson was driving, was in collision with one driven by Alfred Pearce, 862 Balmoral.

Damage to both cars was extensive. Mr. Tuson, in his first accident in 53 years of driving, said he was looking for an automatic light and just did not see the stop sign.

His Jaguar sedan hit Mr. Pearce's car in the left front and turned it around. Mr. Tuson's car ended up on the sidewalk at the far corner of the intersection.

There were no passengers with Mr. Pearce.

'Survival' Plan For Berry Farms

Saanich and Fraser Valley strawberry growers may be saved from virtual extinction by a federal government move to stop dumping here by Mexican producers.

Charles Walls, B.C. Federation of Agriculture manager, said he was optimistic on his return today from Ottawa.

While there he button-holed Justice Minister Davie Fulton and Esquimalt-Saanich MP George Chatterton, seeking support for adding strawberries to the list of items protected by anti-dumping legislation.

INTERESTED

"I was pleased with the result of the meeting," he said. "They are both interested in solving the problem."

"There is no doubt that Mexico is in a position to deal a deathblow to our industry, and some form of protection is necessary."

Hundreds of tons of Mexican strawberries coming into the country could prevent sale of a carry-over of 1,000,000 pounds of B.C. berries that could not be sold last year in the face of foreign competition.

B.C. growers can't compete with the Mexican imports because of difference in labor costs which result in B.C. frozen berries selling at 15½ cents a pound while frozen Mexican berries can be obtained at six cents a pound, Mr. Walls said.

"We believe an agreement has been reached whereby Mexico will cut down its exports to the United States by one-third," he said. "We now fear that Mexico will try to dump this extra surplus into Canada."

B.C. Losing $52 Million MLAs Told

The B.C. government is losing revenues of up to $52,000,000 a year through its unrealistic scale of timber royalties, a forest industry executive told a legislative committee today.

Gordon L. Draeseke, vice-president of Rayonier Canada (B.C.) Ltd. also said a new formula for the royalties—known as stumpage fees—could expand the industry to provide 100,000 new jobs.

Because of the fixed scale of stumpage charges, based on the cost of logging on the coast, and the cost of lumbering in the interior, B.C. forest industry is only one-third the cost of other provinces, he said.

B.C.'s average timber cut in the last four years has been 5,900,000,000 board feet. But the potential cut is 17,100,000,000 board feet, said Mr. Draeseke.

SECOND PLEA

His was the second brief presented to the legislature's forestry committee calling for a new stumpage formula.

Maj.-Gen. B. M. Hoffmeister made the same type of plea Thursday.

The present stumpage formula, which has fixed minimums, encourages cutting of high-grade timber only, said Mr. Draeseke.

The effect has been to discourage loggers from operating in areas which have a low profit margin.

Mr. Draeseke called for elimination of the present "cost-plus" stumpage formula, and a new one based on return of investment.

This would encourage new capital investment, boost competition in the logging industry, increase efficiency, provide new jobs and increase government revenues, he said.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Who is the creator of "Peanuts" which appears in the Times and has he published any children's books? Mrs. D.H.

A. The cartoon strip is drawn by Charles Munnos Schulz, cartoonist for the St. Paul Pioneer Press and Saturday Evening Post 1948-49. The strip was syndicated in 1950. His only books are collections of his cartoons.

Q. On what birthday is a person eligible to receive a telegram from the Queen and is application for this made to the Lieutenant-Governor? Mrs. B.T.P.

A. A person reaching his hundredth birthday is eligible. So are people celebrating their 60th wedding anniversary. Application should be made to the secretary, Government House.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A group of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at the Monterey parking lot for a field trip to Mill Hill, off Atkins Road.

A painting "bee" on the Nature House at Francis Park will be held on Saturday morning by senior members of the society.

A free film show will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. in the Esquimalt Sports Centre.

"Japanese Inn," the life of a typical Japanese family, and "Canada Between the Wars" will be shown.

YMCA physical director Arthur Burgess will speak on "Physical Fitness for Adults" at a meeting of the Tillicum Hampton PTA Monday at 8 p.m. in Tillicum School.

SPCA executive director T. I. Hughes of Vancouver, will be the guest speaker at the annual meeting of the SPCA to start at 8 tonight at Spencehouse. Officers will be elected for the coming year.

All lectures have been cancelled at Victoria College today and Saturday as students and professors enjoy a mid-term breather, the one break in the spring term between Christmas and Easter.

Buildings are open and heated, and library facilities are in operation, so that the college is available for study purposes.

Provincial district horticulturalist Alan Litter will demonstrate fruit tree pruning Saturday, next Wednesday and Feb. 24 sponsored by the Victoria Horticultural Society.

Saturday he will be at 760 Goldstream Road, Wednesday at 550 Agnes Street and Feb. 24 at 1346 Thurlow Street. All three demonstrations will be carried out regardless of weather.

Third national survival training course, due to start Feb. 26, is expected to attract fewer recruits than the first two, due to increased seasonal employment.

Recruiting for the third course is in progress now.

A meeting of the Hill Memorial Home and School Association will be held Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the school.

A slow and lazy storm area off-shore from the U.S. coast will give variable cloud and sunshine to Victoria Saturday and possibly again Sunday, according to weatherman William Mackie.

"There may also be light showers, and the most likely time for them is overnight tonight," he said.

Low temperature tonight will range between 38 and 40 degrees across the district, and the maximum Saturday will be 50 degrees. Winds will be from light to northerly at 15 miles per hour.

A man who told Magistrate Ostler in Saanich police court Thursday he was "no good to anyone" was fined $250 and prohibited from driving in Canada for one year for impaired driving.

Police said John D. Horne, 3060 Donald, tried to overtake another car on the Trans-Canada Highway but lost control and skidded for 120 feet before ending up halfway over a bank.

He was fined an additional $40 for driving without a licence.

Local barrister Monte Tyrwhitt Drake will address a public meeting of the Victoria branch, B.C. Historical Association Thursday at 8:15 p.m. in the Douglas Building cafeteria.

Mr. Drake's subject will be "Tales of the Bench and Bar of British Columbia and Vancouver's Island."

Ald. A. I. Curtis Thursday wondered whether residents of Saanich might like to share the $20,000 annual operating loss of Mountain View Home.

He pointed out the only two letters to newspapers opposing a decision to close the civic institution if the 26 aged men can be relocated satisfactorily had been written by Saanich residents.

"I wonder how they would feel about asking their councils to share the $20,000 cost of the home? I also wonder what their stand on amalgamation would be."

Guest artists at the Silver Threads Centre on Wednesday were William Tickle (violin), Reg Woods (saxophone), and George Fairfield (piano). The program was presented as a public service by Local 247, American Federation of Musicians.

Capsule Showing of Paris Fashions

MONTREAL—An exciting Paris fashion story was presented here this week in the Grand Ballroom of the Queen Elizabeth Hotel when one of the largest fabric mills in the world, Boussac of Paris, presented a capsule of French haute couture. Ten French designers were represented and we saw everything from swimsuits to fabulous floor-sweeping gowns.

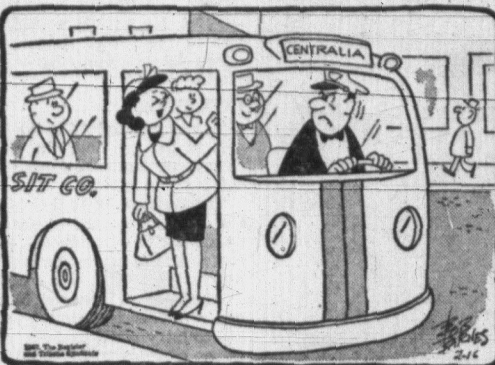

Damaske

Flavor of Paris was brought closer in the two mannequins who travelled with the collection from France. Josette Oberman, a vivacious redhead with amber brown eyes, was born in Guinea and lived many years in Indo-China. She has been a championship swimmer and basketball player; loves jazz, the theatre and movies, Oriental antiques and now keeps fit by bowling. In her own wardrobe she favors browns and greens for sport and black and white for evening. Marie-Helene Sauer, a dark-eyed brunette, likes swimming, modern novels, travel, and jazz music, also Japanese and Italian films. She is an expert at doing the Twist. Her favorite colors are orange and apricot tones. The 90 garments in the presentation were all made of cotton but when couturiers such as Nina Ricci, Christian Dior, Guy Laroche, Jean Desses, Corvan, Serge Matia, Madeleine de Rauche, Jacques Esterel and Hermes work in this material you can be sure it is of the finest quality. The lowered waistline, marked by belt and buckle, was used over and over again. Skirts varied from pleats, stitched or seamed for emphasis, to tiers and wrap-around effects. The slender sheath skirt was important in the show but the trend was to more fullness. The "Cleopatra" influence was shown in many loose back panels and the baring of one shoulder. Cascading hemlines were used for many of the gowns, up to, and in some cases above, the knee in front and flowing out to a floor-length sweeping train in the back. It was an exciting show and, although the beautiful Boussac cottons are not available in British Columbia, I was pleased to be given this glimpse of Paris.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Try Truly Delicious Imported Fruit Juices

By PENNY SAVER

Apple juice from England, grape juice from Germany, blackberry juice, or grape and blackberry juice could be popular liquid refreshments in your house, if introduced.

The apple juice is pure apples in liquid form without additive of sugar, water or preservatives. A bottle contains one pint, four fluid ounces and is really tasty as well as thirst quenching.

White grape juice from Germany is pure except for artificial carbonation. Price of $1.28 is marked for a 26-ounce bottle.

For $1.10 you'll love black current juice with vitamin C. Contents of bottle is 24 ounces. Same price is marked on a combination fruit juice of grape and black current. This, too, is an import from West Germany.

Try these juices on your family. They're non-alcoholic and, I'll wager, they'll love them.

Paie de foie gras (liver loaf) is a cold meat treat that will tempt the taste buds of family or guests.

Made from a special French recipe it's fresh liver-ground very fine—with undissolved amounts and types of spices and herbs added for zest. It's then pressed into a loaf and baked in a moderate oven.

Price of this gourmet's delight is $1 a pound.

Jellied ham or chicken I saw this morning is really sumptuous. Wonderful for serving at a luncheon or for a different lunch idea for the family. Especially attractive, too, when served with salad and greenery. Jellied ham is 17 cents each and the jellied chicken, 25 cents each.

If you're longing to try any of these different menu ideas, call me for the name of the store.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q. "What exercise can I take to reduce my waist?"

A. This is a good one. Stand tall, with your feet comfortably separated. Place both hands on top of your head. Now bend to the left, and try to touch your left elbow to your right leg. Raise your trunk. This time bend to the right and try to touch your right elbow to your left leg. Raise your trunk. Continue alternating left and right.

Q. "Please tell me what causes bad breath. This is a great handicap to me both socially and in the business world."

A. Halitosis may come from diseased teeth, tonsils, adenoids or sinuses. Decayed teeth do not necessarily cause pain, and sinus trouble may be chronic but not painful. Digestive trouble may also be the cause. Of course, poor mouth hygiene can lead to bad breath. Unless the teeth are brushed carefully, decaying food particles may cause the breath to be unpleasant. One reader discovered that she must brush her tongue as well as her teeth. This solved this problem for her.

Q. "I would like to find a product to cover grey hair without going through the bother of real dying, especially bleaching. I have used different products, but found that they didn't last very long. I do not have very much grey hair, just at the hairline. What I want is a temporary cover for the grey between hair colorings."

A. There are some splendid new products on the market which do a very good job, but are not real dyes. If you would like the names of some, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

ADDS FRESHER, SWEETER FLAVOR TO BAKING

THE ONLY EVAPORATED MILK PROCESSED IN B.C.

Miss Joan Blanchard, home and fashion consultant for a prominent Canadian textile company, will present a series of fashion shows in the piece-goods department of the Hudson's Bay Company on Monday and Tuesday next week. She will show fresh, new materials in well-known patterns, specially adaptable to spring and summer wardrobes. The shows, free of charge, will be as follows: Monday at 12:15 and 2:30, with a special teen's show at 4:15; Tuesday at 1 and 3 p.m.

TODAY'S RECIPE

HARLEQUIN MEAT PIE

One cup ripe olives, 2 cups leftover cooked beef or lamb diced, 1 can (10% oz.) mushroom gravy, 1 package (10% oz.) frozen mixed vegetables, cooked; 1 can (8 oz.) small whole onions, drained; 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, biscuits.

Biscuits: Two cups biscuit mix, 1/2 teaspoon crushed marjoram, 2 tablespoons sesame seeds.

Cut olives into wedges, add meat and mushroom gravy and stir well. Add all remaining ingredients except biscuits; heat through. Turn into 10x6 1/2 x2-inch baking pan. Top with biscuits and bake in 425-degree (hot) oven 12 to 15 minutes. Serve hot.

Biscuits: Prepare biscuits according to package directions, adding marjoram. Roll and cut into 12 to 15 diamond-shaped biscuits. Sprinkle with sesame seeds. Makes 6 servings.

Banquet

Valentine menu holders and spring blossoms decorated tables at the 43rd annual banquet of the St. John's Church Anglican Young People's Association in the church hall, Wednesday night.

Recently ordained Rev. Colin Campbell was master of ceremonies and toasts were made and responses given by Dick Van Ek, "The Church." Rev. Canon George Biddle; Eleanor Swetnam, AYPAs president, "Guests"; Mrs. C. S. Hawkins, Miss K. Ironsides, "The AYPAs" and Fred Mulcaister.

Guest speaker was Rev. E. Laura Butler of the Metropolitan United Church.

Dinner prepared and served by members of St. John's Ladies' Auxiliary, was enjoyed by between 80 and 90 members and guests.

Woman Intern Studies Miles From Home

By PAT DUFOUR

Possessed of a quiet but unwavering faith, Dr. Herminia Salvador, a woman intern at Royal Jubilee Hospital, came from her native Manila in the Philippines Islands a few months ago, knowing that she wouldn't see her family again for seven years.

Determined to be a medical missionary for the Seventh Day Adventist Church, the dark-eyed doctor intends to specialize in obstetrics and gynecology — this will take five years—and then work in an American hospital for two years before giving in to her "home sickness" and returning to see her family.

She has two older brothers and sisters and all are working for the church. Two are missionaries in her own country while one brother works in Taiwan and a sister in Singapore.

Dr. Salvador plans to work in one of the Commonwealth countries in the Far East and to do this she must train in one of the Commonwealth countries.

Although she admits that she "was so homesick the second night I was here I felt like flying right home" she never will. She explains, quietly, "I would let so many people down if I did."

NO MONEY

When she made up her mind to be a doctor many years ago her chances seemed very slim. "My family are very poor—my father is a carpenter—and when I asked my parents about going to college they gave me little hope."

"But I said, 'I will pray about it' and my prayers were answered. My brothers and sisters were working by the time I was ready to start and they all chipped in and paid my fees."

But lack of money continued to dog her footsteps. She managed to get through medical school without buying a single text book.

"I listened hard at lectures and borrowed books from the library. I was not the most brilliant student in the classroom—but what could I do? One book cost 60 pesos—about $60."

In spite of her modest summary of herself, Dr. Salvador had the distinction of being one of 140 who finally passed their internship from the original class of 1,000 that entered with her at the Far Eastern University in Manila.

LIKES CITY

She's surprised to find that life in Victoria is not too different from life "at home."

"I imagined lots of ice and snow. I suppose it's the same as when many people picture my own countrymen running around with a G-string and a bow and arrow because tourists single out the more primitive types for pictures."

When her seven years' study are up Dr. Salvador looks forward to seeing her parents again.

"They live in a little house near the campus of the church school where my sister teaches and I look forward to having my friends drop in to enjoy evenings of music."

Eventually she plans to work in either Hong Kong or Penang—but, like the visit home, these plans are way ahead in the future.

Meanwhile she helps care for the hospital's sick and studies in her little room on the top floor of the Jubilee Hospital annex building.

She misses the 90 degree temperatures of her native islands but is thrilled with the welcome given her by Victorians.

"Their warmth more than makes up for the colder weather!"

Canadian Daughters' Tea

Red tulips and cherry blossoms flanked by red candles added a touch of spring to the historical decor at the Victoria Centennial Tea held under auspices of Canadian Daughters' League, Assembly No. 5, Thursday afternoon in the Hudson's Bay Douglas Room.

Members of the assembly in attire of 100 years ago greeted guests, while other members in long black satin skirts, white ruffled aprons and blouses and white caps with black ribbons served tea.

Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett, wife of the Premier of British Columbia, introduced by assembly president Mrs. E. Dyson, opened the tea.

Mrs. Bennett praised the group for its work on many projects, especially its support of the Cancer Fund, for which the proceeds of $100 are to be used.

Co-conveners were Mrs. L.

Better Senior Citizens Housing

Provincial Council of Women urged the provincial government to set up a division of senior citizen housing within the provincial department of social welfare, when delegates presented resolutions from the annual meeting of the council, to the premier and members of the executive council, Thursday evening in the Parliament Buildings.

Another resolution asked that the government set up a regional parks authority with the co-operation of the municipalities of the lower mainland to develop beaches and preserve them as a playground at Semiahoo Bay and White Rock areas.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Guests at Government House

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George Pearkes will have as guests at Government House for several days next week the New Zealand High Commissioner and Mrs. J. S. Reid, who arrive here on Wednesday. The same evening the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Pearkes will give a dinner for the High Commissioner and Mrs. Reid.

Next Tuesday, Mrs. Pearkes will give a luncheon at Government House for the wives of members of the Legislative Assembly.

Kitchen Shower

A huge pink bow trimmed the basket containing gifts at a kitchen shower given by Miss Michel Munro in the Newport Avenue home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Munro, in honor of bride-elect Miss Sally Holland on Thursday evening. Mrs. Pearl Casey presided at the refreshment table. Invited guests included the guest of honor's mother.

Clan MacLeod

The Clan MacLeod will hold its annual dinner in Holyrood House next Thursday at 7 p.m. Special guest will be Mrs. Joan Weir, daughter of Dame Flora MacLeod, Chief of the Clan. Any interested MacLeods may attend if notification is given before noon on Monday to GR 9-4096.

Life Members

During annual meeting of Provincial Council of Women, held in the Empress Hotel, Mrs. R. T. Gilmore, retiring president, was given a life membership. Presentation was made for the council by Mrs. G. W. Kissick. At the same time Mrs. James Hampton, on behalf of the North Shore group, presented Mrs. H. V. Collins, North Vancouver, with a council life membership.

Down Hemlines!

Bearded men, stand back, now it's the women's turn to get into the centennial spirit.

At a mass meeting, attended by close to 200 representatives of women's groups in Victoria, held in the Georgian Lounge of the Empress Hotel, Thursday afternoon, Samuel J. Grogg, Canadian and western United States field counsellor for the John B. Rogers Producing Company, appealed to women "to get into the act."

"We would like to see chapters of Victoria belles formed. On one day of each week throughout the centennial year they would get into old-fashioned costume and relive the old days on Victoria streets."

Meeting was one in a series of four called at the invitation of Mayor R. B. Wilson to give the centennial committee an idea of what the majority of citizens would like to see included in the celebrations program.

Lake Hill Women's Institute, Monday at 2 p.m., Quadra Street hall.

Work Starts at Nanaimo On Disputed Motor Hotel

NANAIMO — Work started Thursday on $750,000 motor hotel here as A and B Construction Ltd. started clearing a site at Comox Road and Terminal Avenue.

The property, owned by the city, is at the northwest corner of the intersection, beside George Pearson Bridge.

The project was the subject of a heated controversy last fall when a group of hotelmen in the city objected vigorously to the sale of the land on the grounds that already there was adequate accommodation in the city.

NANAIMO — Action of landlords in raising rents of pensioners in the wake of $10 per month pension boosts announced from Ottawa has drawn a protest from Joe Sutton, president of Nanaimo Old Age Pensioners' Association. "Other things will also go up and our little pension boost will disappear like snow in the summer sun," he said.

He said he is going to complain to Prime Minister Diefenbaker about the home rental increases.

"Benefit from the pension increase is being wiped out before we even receive it," he said.

COMOX — One of the largest schools of killer whales ever seen in Comox waters was sighted Thursday by fishermen. Bill Webster, manager of Nordic Fish Company, said two sport fishermen reported seeing 60 killer whales crossing the Comox Bar. Fisheries officer George McIndoe confirmed the report.

DUNCAN — Twenty entries have been received for canoe races to be held on Quamichan Lake May 13 in connection with annual Corpus Christi Indian sports.

Event this year will be the first ever held away from Cowichan Bay since the sports started 75 years ago.

Members of the committee in charge are Norman Joe, Abner Thorne, Dennis Alfonso and Rev. Joseph Rossiter.

Money raised through this event, and the accompanying track and field meet scheduled for May 12, will be used to provide recreation facilities for Indian young people.

PORT ALBERNI — Councils of both Alberni and Port Alberni have agreed on development of land on Rogers Creek and at Somers Park as campsites to relieve the shortage of tourist accommodation. Works superintendents of the two cities will prepare estimates of costs of the two projects.

B.C. Forest Service crews have begun a replanting program on a total of 1,600 acres of logged and burned land at Campbell River and Cowichan Lake on Vancouver Island and Harrison Lake on the mainland.

A total of 1,350,000 Douglas fir seedlings will be set out on the three areas.

ISLAND DIVISION manager Gordon C. MacDonald of B.C. Telephone Co., and his staff, will move from Nanaimo to new division headquarters in Victoria, Monday. Staff will take offices in company's Blanshard Street Building, but will make permanent quarters in the proposed $250,000 building to be erected on five-acre site at Quadra Street and McKenzie Avenue.

Telephone employee population in Nanaimo will be affected only slightly, since Up-Island city will continue to be district headquarters for 18 exchanges in central Island area. Division headquarters were based in Nanaimo during period of construction and conversion of nearby exchanges to dial operation.

Miner Died of Asphyxiation, Court Told

COURTENAY — Asphyxiation caused the death of a man here during a street fight, Jan. 27, according to Nanaimo pathologist, Dr. R. S. Clarke.

Victim of the incident was Donald Butler, a Timmins, Ont., miner. Dr. Clarke said that while unconscious, probably from blows on the head, he had breathed vomit into his lungs. There was no brain injury, Dr. Clarke said.

Dr. Clarke testified at a preliminary hearing here Thursday on a charge of manslaughter against half-brothers Gary and Keith Parkinson, both 19, of Courtenay.

A third man, Peter L. M. Day, 24, also has been charged, and will appear for preliminary hearing following the Parkinson hearing.

The Parkinson brothers are represented by J. Caldwell of Campbell River, and S. J. Clark, Nanaimo, will appear for Day. The Parkinson hearing is expected to end this afternoon.

T. G. Ryan is acting for the crown.

At least 60 spectators were turned away from the crowded courtroom as the hearing got under way.

WHAT HO! HAVE YOU HEARD!! ??

My young friend, Eric Charman, of Fairfield Realty having received instructions from Messrs. Sly, Slope, Sharp and Swindle (The London Solicitors for the Doppington-Dunford Estates) will be holding

OPEN HOUSE — SATURDAY, 17th FEBRUARY 11.00 a.m. to 4.00 p.m.

1901 FAIRFIELD ROAD

This elegant residence, designed by the eminent architect, Sir Fairfax Fensomby, was built ten years ago, regardless of expense. Come and see the house so often admired by the passerby. Accommodation comprises birch paneled entrance hall, magnificent drawing room (ideally suited for drawing a cork or a picture), sizeable dining room, cosy paneled den with fireplace, two large bedrooms, luxurious bathroom (complete with lavatory), hobby room with W.C. and basin adjacent, hardwood parquet floors throughout. The residence is connected to main services including electricity, main water and telephone! Price: $23,800 or $8095 6s 3d. The owner will accept $4,000 down or £1,347 5s 2d.

P. S. Unfortunately, I am unable to get there myself as I am busily engaged in writing the final report for the Sir Joshua Jollington commission, which is enquiring into the possibility of cooler curries from Calcutta!

Island Rotarians To Play Host

COURTENAY — Vancouver Island Rotarians will play host to Rotary members from all over the world at the Seattle fair this year.

Bill McLeod, president of the Courtenay Rotary Club, said today that 3,500 members of 43 Vancouver Island and Washington clubs have contributed towards a "friendship" room directly below the space needle. The 1,100-square-foot room will be used by District 502 Rotarians to greet other Rotary visitors from all over the world.

FREE LUNCHES

Coffee and lunches will be served at no cost to Rotarians and their friends.

"The whole purpose of the friendship room is to create fellowship and good will between the people of all nations," Mr. McLeod said.

"There will be Rotarians on duty at all times and hosting obligations will be shared equally by all clubs, probably on a per capita basis," he added.

A meeting of the international committee chairmen will be held in Nanaimo Sunday to formulate further plans for the room. Tom Bradbury of Victoria will chair the meeting.

Winner: car of the year award

Selected as the "Car of the Year" by Canada Track and Traffic, the nation's leading automotive journal, the 1962 Studebaker Lark was proved to be the best automobile buy of all domestic cars.

Lark has more leg room than any domestic family car. Seats are comfortable, well shaped. Greatest headroom. Easy entry and exit.

Tests found the Lark to be rattle-free, weather-tight, quiet running and dependable.

Lark honoured as a most economical car to operate because of excellent gas mileage, low maintenance requirements, overall reliability, low cost of repairs, built on body components and nationwide service facilities. Lark judged to give most per dollar.

Judge the Lark for yourself at your Studebaker Dealer.

A

Winner: first Trans-Canada Rally

For the 4,100 tortuous miles of the first Trans-Canada Rally, the Studebaker Larks amazed spectators and other competitors with their thrilling acceleration and speed, top fuel economy and maximum passenger comfort. The fabulous Larks rocketed through tortuous downslopes with never a miss, many cars failed this grueling test of endurance and handling.

This reliable performance made Lark outright winner, taking not only first but also second place over 86 competitors in 41 makes and models of cars.

This is the kind of reliable performance you deserve and should demand from a car.

See your Studebaker Dealer today. Let the spirited '62 Lark put the thrill, fun and glamour back into your driving.

R

Winner: Little Le Mans

Lark outmaneuvered, outdistanced, outpaced, all foreign and domestic cars to win the 4th annual Little Le Mans. Lark finished first, over all competitors and in so doing, won the trophy for the Fastest Lap.

The tortuous, twisting track with its sharp turns, 20 degree incline and short straightaway runs, gave brakes, steering, suspension, gears and acceleration the most complete testing possible. Eight ceaseless hours of Little Le Mans reflects real championship performance and endurance.

The Lark's race winning performance is not just for competition. Lark's dependability on the race course means less maintenance costs, and years of trouble free operation.

Test the Lark for yourself, then be a winner—buy a Lark.

K

Winner: Sales more than Doubled

Come in and test-drive the car that wins the competitions, and captures the public's eye. Lark is bigger where it counts. Big in feel... solid, safe, sure-footed. Big in Roominess... more leg and head room than other "standard" size cars. Big in Performance... 6 or V8, you get more miles-to-the-gallon and miles-to-the-hour.

Lark is compact where it's sensible. Compact for Driving Ease, finger-tight steering, precise handling, first-time parking. Compact for Economy. You get more for your money and spend less because of the Lark's low, initial cost, operating expenses and maintenance. These are reasons why '62 Studebaker Lark sales have increased 209.3%.

Re-evaluate your automobile standards—talk with your Studebaker Dealer, now.

BAN-BOMB STUDENT MOB INVADES WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Hundreds of college students swarmed into Washington today for a massive demonstration at the White House and on Capitol Hill against atmospheric nuclear testing by the United States or Russia.

Organized under the label "turn toward peace," the students streamed in throughout the night and this morning by bus, train, plane and automobile, armed with placards and literature. They called for concrete steps toward disarmament.

FOUL WEATHER PLAGUES U.S. COAST TO COAST

CHICAGO (AP)—Snow and sleet spread across areas of the United States midwest and west today. More rain doused water-soaked, muddy sections of Southern California. Severe thunderstorms rumbled across areas in the southeast in the wake of tornadoes which skipped across parts of Mississippi and Louisiana.

Snowfalls ranged up to two feet in parts of New York State.

Storm-related deaths in the northeast numbered at least 28.

Although more rain fell today, there was welcome news for rain-soaked Southern Californians: No heavy downpours expected and only occasional showers forecast for the next two days.

The weather bureau said the latest storm was moving on after delivering its big punch Thursday. Los Angeles recorded 1.35 inches while 2.19 inches fell in suburban Maywood and Bell.

In its wake the storm left devastating mudslides, sinking and sliding homes, flooded intersections, undermined roads.

Russ Hope to Lure Neutrals to Summit

MOSCOW (AP)—The newspaper Soviet Russia said today Russia hopes the heads of the eight neutral nations on the UN disarmament negotiating group will attend the summit session Premier Khrushchev has proposed to be held next month in Geneva.

The official newspaper said "Khrushchev's proposal was adressed not only to leaders of the Western powers, Kennedy and Macmillan, but also to leaders of neutral countries which are members of the committee on disarmament."

Indian Defence Minister V. Krishna Menon told a political meeting that Prime Minister Nehru would not attend the Geneva meeting because he would be busy forming his new cabinet and entertaining President Kennedy's wife on her visit to India.

(Menon added that a summit disarmament conference would be nothing but a circus and he didn't expect "anything concrete to emerge.")

The Soviet newspaper also quoted the London Daily Express as saying that a diplomatic catastrophe for the West would occur if Nehru and President Nasser of the United Arab Republic attend while President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan stay at home and carry on with plans to explode nuclear test bombs.

Soviet Russia said the neutral countries could play an important role as "arbiters."

Bad Weather Fails Soviet

BERLIN (Reuters)—Russia, accused by the Western powers of harassing tactics in the vital air corridors to Berlin, made another attempt today to reserve one of the lanes for its exclusive use but appeared to be foiled by bad weather.

The bid—sixth since Feb. 8—came as the Western Allies were reported ready to put special measures into operation if Russian jets continued buzzing Western aircraft in the air corridors.

LONDON (CP)—Winds of more than 100 miles an hour lashed Britain today, killing at least eight persons and cutting a wide trail of destruction.

Trees were uprooted, roofs ripped off houses and road, sea and air traffic disrupted. In Scotland, Scotland and northern England were hardest hit, with gusts of wind reaching 117 miles an hour as they swept in from the Atlantic.

Six of those who died were killed in their beds when the gales brought the roofs of their homes crashing down.

Eight schools had to be closed in Bradford, northern England, and 2,000 students were sent home because of the damage caused to the buildings by the gales.

A 19-year-old mother was killed and her husband was severely injured when the roof of their home collapsed during the gales in Barnsley. Their 10-week-old baby, in a crib near their bed, was uninjured.

Gusts of 90 miles an hour blew down two 460-foot-high riverside power pylons and tied up shipping on the busy River Tyne in northeast England.

The high power cables fell in the river as the twisted structures crashed to the ground. All shipping came to a halt along the river, on whose banks are some of Britain's biggest shipyards and busiest docks.

Informed sources at Geneva said today an agreement to end the war had been concluded, with the exception of a few details, and was to be signed in Paris within the next 10 days.

Satellite Plans

ROME (AP)—Italy is planning to fire its first satellite into orbit within two years, using a floating launching platform.

No Grain Dicker

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today that no negotiations are under way at this time between Canada and Communist China concerning further grain sales to China.

DEAD AT 80

Ernest Brown, British health minister during the Second World War, died today in London. He had held government office continually from 1931 until his defeat in the 1945 general election. He was first elected to Parliament in 1927, representing Leith, Scotland.

Algeria Peace Near But Violence Grows

PARIS (Reuters)—French cabinet ministers today discussed tighter measures for France and Algeria in readiness for the announcement of a cease-fire in the Algerian war.

Informed sources at Geneva said today an agreement to end the war had been concluded, with the exception of a few details, and was to be signed in Paris within the next 10 days.

Premier Michel Debre presided at the cabinet meeting that was attended by Defence Minister Pierre Messmer, Jus-

Minister Bernard Chevot, interior chief Roger Frey, delegate-general in Algeria Jean

Morin, and Paris Police Prefect Maurice Papon.

No announcement was made after the meeting but official sources expected stringent measures to be applied in France and Algeria to guard against disorders by European extremists in case of the cease-fire.

But as peace in Algeria drew closer, extremists on both sides continued their program of violence.

Three prominent newspaper men on the influential daily paper Le Monde were the targets of plastic bomb blasts.

One of the explosions occurred outside the apartment of interior chief Roger Frey, delegate-general in Algeria Jean

BCE ASKS LICENCE FOR PEACE

B.C. Electric has filed its application to the B.C. government's water comptroller for a licence to build the Peace River power project.

B.C. Electric chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum said today that notices of the application were posted Tuesday at the Portage Mountain damsite in the Peace River country, near Hudson Hope.

He said full details of the engineering and plans were being filed with the regional water recorder at Pouce Coupe.

These details will be forwarded to Water Comptroller A. F. Paget in Victoria within a few days.

Mr. Paget will then decide if it is necessary to call public hearings either here or in the areas to be flooded out by the dam.

"We're going right ahead with this as fast as we can," said Dr. Shrum.

He said that most of the preliminary work at the damsite has now been completed.

An access bridge across the river has been finished and the first load of equipment will go over next Monday, he said.

Work on a pilot tunnel to test rock conditions has also been finished.

Dr. Shrum said he has advanced the contract date for the first major project—three diversion tunnels to cost about $20,000,000—by two weeks.

The contract will be let March 20, he said.

Premier Bennett will open bids for this contract in Vancouver on March 8.

Dr. Shrum said that fire, "serves to emphasize the seriousness of the questions of community order facing the west Kootenays. I am sure Mr. Fulton is just as concerned as we are because the situation appears to go beyond the normal problems of law enforcement."

He was asked whether this indicated the B.C. authorities believe the terrorist activities have gone beyond the capacity of the province to handle.

'D' Squad At Work —Bonner

OTTAWA (CP)—Attorney-General Robert Bonner of British Columbia indicated today that further arrests may be made among Sons of Freedom

Doukhobors and, as a result, there will be problems involving the federal and provincial governments.

Mr. Bonner, here to confer with Justice Minister Fulton, noted that 72 members of the religious sect now are under arrest and 14 have been convicted of charges arising from terrorist activities.

"As evidence permits, the number of arrests will rise," he told reporters. "There will be matters of joint national and provincial concern arising out of this."

Another outbreak

Terrorists set fire Thursday night to a building next to the Nelson courthouse where a number of the Sons of Freedom are being tried.

Mr. Bonner said that fire, "serves to emphasize the seriousness of the questions of community order facing the west Kootenays. I am sure Mr. Fulton is just as concerned as we are because the situation appears to go beyond the normal problems of law enforcement."

He called this the "highest paid unemployment insurance in the world."

"What about the thousands of CCF and Liberals?" Education Minister Leslie Peterson hurled back.

"SMEAR"

"You are smearing good men," the minister said.

Other opposition members cried "pork barrel."

THIS DAY IN VICTORIA - 1862

FEBRUARY 16

D. Jacobi today threw open the doors of a German coffee saloon, on Yates Street opposite Hibben and Carswell's. Early patrons described the place as "first class."

Major Tilton, formerly surveyor general of Washington Territory, purchased a portion of C. B. Young's property at the foot of Johnson Street adjoining the old bridge, including four frame buildings, for $12,000.

A warrant officer from the gunboat Forward reported he had been fired on last night by an Indian, as he was walking along Esquimalt Road. The ball whistled past his ear. It has not been established whether there is any connection with threats made against Royal Navy officers after the execution of "Charley," a Cowichan Indian, for the murder of an RN stoker.

The schooner Meg Mertilles, reported lost with all hands early in January, arrived from Barclay Sound, where she had been locked in the ice all winter.

"Everybody Wants to Go"

WHEN it comes to pioneering, I'm strictly a half-hearted dilettante.

There was a time, though, when I figuratively breathed the rare air of frozen hills in the Klondyke. I was imaginatively one of the boys by the bar when Dan McGrew got him. I felt the spell of the Yukon. I almost saw a four-pronged buck a-swaying, I warmed my spiritual hands at the door of the firebox where they "cremated" Sam McGee.

Stott

By the time I was ten I could recite "There are strange things done in the midnight sun by the men who mull for gold," right down to the line where Sam said, "Please close the door."

A few of the older men who visited our house had been to the Yukon seeking gold. They talked of Tex Rickard and other notables. Later I read about "Klondyke Kate."

Then, two or three years ago, a young man of exceptional talent tossed all my cherished dreams of that country and its characters onto the ash heap.

When Pierre Berton finished with Robert Service—exposed him as a mountebank—on page 120 of his book, all I had left was a handful of ashes, a mouthful of mould.

So perished, the grandeur and the glory created by an itinerant rhymester of an earlier day. And with it died my personal interest in a spectacular part of our country, one of the last frontiers.

Legends can be destroyed, but quite a lot else is often broken in the process.

Now Mr. Berton is looking enthusiastic.

ally forward to the Dawson City Gold Rush Festival.

"It is so wacky, so unlikely, so off-beat," he says, "that everybody wants to go."

Mr. Berton isn't quite right. I can forego the trip. My broken dreams of the Yukon lie just where Mr. Berton put them. He showed me how badly I'd been hoaxed in the weaving of them. I don't want to be reminded of what a sucker I was.

Anybody with a grain of wit, of course, will realize that the authentic story of the gold rush told by Mr. Berton contains every bit as much excitement as the rhymes of Mr. Service.

But I'm not even enthusiastic over the report that a Broadway company has signed contracts to take big name stars in the entertainment field up there to premiere a rewrite of Ben Jonson's "Volpone" with music.

The much-ballyhooed "Alaskans" of TV exploitation sort of chilled me off on that general locale, though I took a transient fancy to Dorothy Provine.

My attitude, admittedly, is very unfair. I've thrown the baby out with the used bath water. I've lost my interest in a territory that once captured and held my imagination. I'm sore because I liked Service's jingles and the myths they created. And I had admired Service because he never pretended to be a poet.

But I can't help feeling a bit cheated because such a thorough debunking job was done on him.

Not that I hadn't some doubts about the feasibility of that Sam McGee story. But accept as a fact the statement that "Songs of a Sourdough" were written before Service saw the Klondyke. What's wrong with that?

As far as that goes, I doubt very much that my old friend Sam Coleridge ever got to Xanadu.

No 'Fast Buck' Policy With Dollar by Canada

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — Louis Rasminsky, governor of the Bank of Canada, today faced the task of convincing the world's central banking organization that Canada is not seeking any unfair advantage with her floating dollar exchange rate.

Rasminsky, member of the International Monetary Fund's 18-man executive, represented Canada as the executive opened an extensive discussion of Canadian financial policies and their bearing on Canada's foreign trade and financial relations with other countries.

Discussions were cloaked in secrecy but informants said a growing number of the fund's executive directors believe Canada should abide by fund rules and return her dollar to a pegged rate, approved by the fund executive. Rasminsky declined to make any comment. He conferred with a number of the directors privately Thursday. There were reports he would seek to repeat the government view that changes in the Canadian dollar exchange rate are moderate and within a range acceptable to the fund. Several prominent fund directors, representing countries in Asia and Europe, have rejected this view.

Canada, which at one time held her dollar at a fixed discount of about 10 per cent in relation to U.S. currency, set her dollar free in 1950 as a "temporary" move to offset a heavy inflow of foreign capital. The dollar started to climb to par and then to a premium of as much as 6 per cent in terms of U.S. currency.

Last year the government announced action to use official reserves of gold and U.S. dollars to depress the exchange rate to a discount. But the dollar seemed to drop more rapidly than apparently the government anticipated. There were reports it had to use its reserves last month to study and support the rate to prevent a sudden large deterioration. The rate fell more than 6 per cent.

Some of the fund directors took note of the fact that W. Earle McLaughlin, president of the Royal Bank of Canada, has accused the government of adopting a manipulated floating rate. Finance Minister Donald Fleming denied this, saying this description is "quite unfair."

When the government established its new monetary policy last June, Rasminsky made an appearance before the fund executive to explain Canadian policy. Last July fund executive members suggested it was time Canada returned to a pegged rate but Rasminsky gave no indication the advice would be accepted.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

'Keep Britain Great'

LONDON—Anyone can book Trafalgar Square to hold a meeting.

Even someone from neighboring Canada House can get in touch with the Ministry of Works and provided they feel it's for a genuine cause, he'll be granted a permission to climb up there among the lions at the foot of Nelson's Column and say his piece.

This has come to light through a fast move pulled on the bomb-squatters, the Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament, by a 29-year-old clerk from Cheam, Surrey.

He and his chums were in a pub discussing how fed up they were with the trouble and inconvenience caused by the Ban the Bomb sit-down demonstration at Trafalgar Square and elsewhere. With another big demonstration being lined up for Easter Monday at Trafalgar Square, they felt they would be doing the public a service if they forestalled it in some way.

So the young clerk, R. C. Gleaves by name, called the Ministry of Works and asked whether he could hold a meeting there on Easter Monday.

Certainly, they said, yours is the first application and our rule is first come first served.

But when they asked him the name of his organization, that was a bit of a poser for Gleaves, seeing as how it hadn't gone beyond a chat with his friends at the "local." But on the spur of the moment he said he was secretary of the Keep Britain Great Campaign.

So—the Keep Britain Great campaigners get Trafalgar Square, much to the annoyance of the Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament.

Meanwhile the phone at the home of self-appointed Secretary Gleaves of the Keep Britain Great Campaign has been jammed with calls from people who want to know precisely what the campaign is all about and can they join. He is expected to have those details sorted out by the time Easter Monday comes along.

A complication, of course, is that he can't write to them because of the current go-slow of Britain's Post Office workers.

This has been going on in Britain since New Year's Day, and it has had the effect of making a lot of people very angry indeed.

If the postmen have a case, they say, let them go out on an honest strike and get the whole thing over with.

Elected Government Returns to Malta

VALETTA, Malta (Reuters)—Maltese residents vote this weekend in an election that will restore an elected government to the island after an absence of three years.

Six political parties are battling for the 50 seats in a legislative assembly established by a new constitution restoring internal self-government to Malta. A total of 100,000 persons are eligible to vote.

Malta has been without elected government for the last three years. The island has been ruled directly by the British governor, advised by a non-elected executive council.

It reverted to this form of Crown colony rule when Dom Mintoff's Labor government resigned in April, 1958, after a dispute with Britain over economic matters.

Under the new constitution the government will have full legislative and executive powers except in the spheres of foreign affairs and defence. Powers in these two fields will be shared with the British government.

Although all the political parties are critical of the new constitution, all have announced that they will contest the elections.

University Students To Head Into Arctic

OTTAWA (CP)—Ten university students head into the Arctic for three months this summer on a mission that Northern Affairs Minister Dinsdale hopes could lead to permanent settlement.

The students, recruited primarily from the University of Toronto and the University of Alberta, will fly to northern points this spring, with $100 pocket money from the government plus a special issue of Arctic clothing.

The program is designed to give students a first-hand knowledge of the north with the hope that many will decide to settle permanently and become a part of the upsurge in development taking place now," said Mr. Dinsdale.

The northern mission, in its second year, is under a plan worked out between the northern affairs department and the Indian-Eskimo Association of Canada.

Some of the students will work with Eskimo fishing and handicraft co-operatives, others will assist teachers and welfare workers. In their spare time they may fish or hunt seals with the Eskimos.

U.S. Tariff Cuts Benefit Free World

GLASGOW (Reuters)—Tariff cuts the United States negotiates with the European Common Market will be extended to other countries of the free world U.S. Ambassador David Bruce promised here today.

In a luncheon speech to the Glasgow Chamber of Commerce he said "the continuance of non-discriminatory treatment is essential if we are to avoid increasing the disparity between the rich and poor nations."

"Our effort to get the Common Market down to a tolerable level is intended to benefit all outside countries."

VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1962—PAGE 17

MONTE ROBERTS

A bunch of us boys were killing time at a popular neighborhood establishment last weekend when the subject of women's lot in life entered the discussion.

The main question seemed to be, are women better off in this emancipated world than they used to be in the era before labor-saving devices?

Naturally enough, I told the boys about my little old grandmother Monteith, who used to live on Maitland Street, across from Capt. Troup's old residence.

Grandma Monteith's idea of a labor-saving device was an extra stove in the washhouse, out in the backyard, so she didn't have to heat water on the kitchen stove and carry it out back.

The way she operated on washday (Monday, of course) was to carry the heaping bundles of soiled linen—she cared for a large household composed mainly of working men—out to the washhouse, about 50 feet from the back porch.

Then she'd build a fire in the small stove in the washhouse, and fill the big washpan from a tap just outside the door—another labor-saving device.

Grandma Monteith being a little-bitty thing, about four foot eleven, hanging up the clothes was quite a chore. But she solved it by having clothes props strategically placed, so she could remove them, thus lowering the line within reach, load the lines with the clean clothes, then heave the props into place again.

Oh, I almost forgot, Grandma had a hand-turned mangle, which she honestly considered a labor-saving device.

"Yes," I said to the boys, "There's no doubt about it, women are better off today than they were before labor-saving devices."

So saying, I left the popular neighborhood establishment, carrying my bundle of clean laundry home to my wife.

Wonderful labor-saving devices, both of them—coin laundries and husbands.

STUDENT LEADER

By LESLIE MILLIN

Times College Correspondent

"I knew that there were plans afoot to kidnap me," says Victoria College student president Brian Little, "but I didn't know they were really going to go through with it."

"I thought they were just kidding."

Little made his way back to Victoria late Thursday night from Vancouver after being spirited away by members of Victoria College's Women's Undergraduate Society as one of their projects for Twip Week, the traditional week of upside down activities as women usurp the masculine role for five days.

BOUND, GAGGED

Descending on him as he was enjoying his morning coffee break Thursday, five co-eds bound, gagged and blindfolded him, and carried him away to Vancouver by ferry with one of their number going along to make sure he got there.

"The first time I knew what had happened was on the ferry," says Little.

"It was most embarrassing. The vice-principal of the college was also going over, and I couldn't think of one really plausible explanation of why we were there."

Once in Vancouver, the hostage was taken to the University of British Columbia, where he was shown around the campus by officials of the student government there.

Twip Week officially ends tonight, with the crowning of the Campus Queen and the Bachelor of the Year at a dance to which the women must invite men, and pay all expenses.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

Assiniboine, Margaree, Ottawa return April 13.

Local barrister Monte Tyrwhitt Drake will address a public meeting of the Victoria Branch, B.C. Historical Association, Thursday at 8:15 p.m. in the Douglas Building cafeteria.

Mr. Drake's subject will be "Tales of the Bench and Bar of British Columbia and Vancouver's Island."

Ald. A. I. Curtis Thursday wondered whether residents of Saanich might like to share the $20,000 annual operating loss of Mountain View Home.

He pointed out the only two letters to newspapers opposing a decision to close the civic institution if the 26 aged men can be relocated satisfactorily had been written by Saanich residents.

"I wonder how they would feel about asking their councils to share the $20,000 cost of the home? I also wonder what their stand on amalgamation would be."

Guest artists at the Silver Threads Centre on Wednesday were William Tickle (violin), Reg Woods (saxophone), and George Fairfield (piano). The program was presented as a public service by Local 247, American Federation of Musicians.

AUTO CLUB BACKS TISDALLE

Enthusiastic backing for a recommendation made in the legislature by John Tisdalle (SC-Saanich) this week that a new "express" highway be built immediately to link Victoria and the Swartz Bay ferry terminal has come from the Victoria Automobile Club.

Club president W. J. Clark said today his group had been making representations for years stressing the need for a four-lane divided highway.

"The inadequacy of the present road becomes most obvious to any motorist arriving on the Island," Mr. Clark declared. "After driving on mainland highways, the motorist frequently finds himself restricted to 30 miles per hour in 60-mile zones."

Mr. Clark pointed out the need for a better Pat Bay Highway has become more pressing with the government providing hourly service on the Swartz-Tsawwassen route.

On the mainland, he emphasized, the motorist has been provided with excellent highways to Vancouver from Tsawwassen and this highway is being extended to the border.

"The one all-important link, Swartz Bay to Victoria, is all that now remains to be constructed to modern standards to complete this excellent highway system for the lower mainland and the lower island," Mr. Clark concluded.

Mr. Campbell said three groups already have advised that they wish to appear—the Retail Merchants' Association, the Automotive Retailers' Association and Woodwards Stores Ltd., all of which are opposed to the stamp promotions.

The committee will begin sittings early next week, hearing first from the attorney general department on legislation now in existence.

Mr. Campbell said it will accept submissions from all interested parties whether they speak for an organization or for themselves as individuals.

PLEBISCITE?

Bert Price (SC-Vancouver Burrard) asked whether newspaper reports claiming that the committee would recommend province-wide hearings and a plebiscite on the question had come as a result of anything Mr. Campbell had said.

Mr. Campbell said he had made no such statements. This was purely speculation.

KING CASE

Lawyer Plans All-Night 'Brainstorm'

The 11-week hearings and trial of former real estate dealer Milton Harter King are expected to come to an end on Wednesday.

After a brief cross-examination in city police court involving Detective William Andrews and defence lawyer David Hummel, the magistrate adjourned the case until Wednesday for probation report and sentence.

King has pleaded guilty to violating a trust.

Originally arraigned on nine counts, King will be sentenced in regard to one only.

WITHDRAWN

"I will make application to withdraw the other eight charges," prosecutor Angus Smith told court.

Total monies involved in the nine trusts exceeded $31,000.

Sentencing and probation report had been scheduled for Tuesday, but Magistrate Ostler adhered to a request of Mr. Hummel's for a one-day extension.

Said Mr. Hummel: "From 10:30 p.m. Monday night Dr. Douglas Alcorn (psychiatrist), the probation officer and myself plan an all-night brainstorming session, so I submit I might be rather tired for a hard morning in court."

Mr. Hummel did not elaborate on the "brainstorming" session.

Police believe the men made their way into the old ship by way of a door off the roof.

They have taken tools and other accessories from the restaurant.

Woman Hurt, Heavy Damage To Two Cars

A woman was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital this morning with injuries suffered as a result of a two-car crash at Fernwood Road and Haultain Street.

Mrs. Eva Tuson, 148 West Gorge Road, received minor injuries to her arms and left side when the car her husband, Ernest Tuson, was driving, was in collision with one driven by Alfred Pearce, 862 Balmoral.

Damage to both cars was extensive.

Mr. Tuson, in his first accident in 53 years of driving, said he was looking for an automatic light and just did not see the stop sign.

His Jaguar sedan hit Mr. Pearce's car in the left front and turned it around. Mr. Tuson's car ended up on the sidewalk at the far corner of the intersection.

There were no passengers with Mr. Pearce.

'Survival' Plan For Berry Farms

Saanich and Fraser Valley strawberry growers may be saved from virtual extinction by a federal government move to stop dumping here by Mexican producers.

Charles Walls, B.C. Federation of Agriculture manager, said he was optimistic on his return today from Ottawa.

While there he button-holed Justice Minister Davie Fulton and Esquimalt-Saanich George Chatterton, seeking support for adding strawberries to the list of items protected by anti-dumping legislation.

"I was pleased with the result of the meeting," he said. "They are both interested in solving the problem."

"There is no doubt that Mexico is in a position to deal a deathblow to our industry, and some form of protection is necessary."

Hundreds of tons of Mexican strawberries coming into the country could prevent sale of a carry-over of 1,000,000 pounds of B.C. berries that could not be sold last year in the face of foreign competition.

B.C. growers can't compete with the Mexican imports because of difference in labor costs which result in B.C. frozen berries selling at 15½ cents a pound while frozen Mexican berries can be obtained at six cents a pound, Mr. Walls said.

"We believe an agreement has been reached whereby Mexico will cut down its exports to the United States by one-third," he said. "We now fear that Mexico will try to dump this extra surplus into Canada."

B.C. Losing $52 Million MLAs Told

The B.C. government is losing revenues of up to $52,000,000 a year through its unrealistic scale of timber royalties, a forest industry executive told a legislative committee today.

Gordon L. Draeseke, vice-president of Rayonier Canada (B.C.) Ltd. also said a new formula for the royalties known as stumpage fees—could expand the industry to provide 100,000 new jobs.

Because of the fixed scale of stumpage charges, based on the cost of logging on the coast, and the cost of lumbering in the interior, B.C. forest industry is only one-third the size it could be, he said.

"B.C.'s average timber cut in the last four years has been 5,900,000 board feet. But the potential cut is 17,100,000 board feet, said Mr. Draeseke.

SECOND PLEA

This was the second brief presented to the legislature's forestry committee calling for a new stumpage formula.

Maj. Gen. B. M. Hoffmeister made the same type of plea Thursday.

The present stumpage formula, which has fixed minimums, encourages cutting of high-grade timber only, said Mr. Draeseke.

The effect has been to discourage loggers from operating in areas which have a low profit margin.

Mr. Draeseke called for elimination of the present "cost-plus" stumpage formula, and a new one based on return of investment.

This would encourage new capital investment, boost completion in the logging industry, increase efficiency, provide new jobs and increase government revenues, he said.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Who is the creator of "Peanuts" which appears in the Times and has he published any children's books? Mrs. D.H.

A. The cartoon strip is drawn by Charles Munnro Schulz, cartoonist for the St. Paul Pioneer Press and Saturday Evening Post 1948-49. The strip was syndicated in 1950. His only books are collections of his cartoons.

Q. On what birthday is a person eligible to receive a telegram from the Queen and is application for this made to the Lieutenant-Governor? Mrs. B.T.P.

A. A person reaching his hundredth birthday is eligible. So are people celebrating their 60th wedding anniversary. Application should be made to the secretary, Government House.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve controversial or local problems. We will attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A group of the Junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at the Monterey parking lot for a field trip to Mill Hill, off Atkins Road.

A painting "bee" on the Nature House at Francis Park will be held on Saturday morning by senior members of the society.

A free film show will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. in the Esquimalt Sports Centre.

"Japanese Inn," the life of a typical Japanese family, and "Canada Between the Wars" will be shown.

YMCA physical director Arthur Burgess will speak on "Physical Fitness for Adults" at a meeting of the Tillicum Hampton PTA Monday at 8 p.m. in Tillicum School.

SPCA executive director T. I. Hughes of Vancouver, will T. I. Hughes of Vancouver, will meet of the SPCA to start at 8 tonight at Spencerhouse. Officers will be elected for the coming year.

All lectures have been cancelled at Victoria College today and Saturday as students and professors enjoy a mid-term breather, the one break in the spring term between Christmas and Easter.

Buildings are open and heated, and library facilities are in operation, so that the college is available for study purposes.

Provincial district horticulturalist Alan Litter will demonstrate fruit tree pruning Saturday, next Wednesday and Feb. 24 sponsored by the Victoria Horticultural Society.

Saturday he will be at 760 Goldstream Road, Wednesday at 550 Agnes Street and Feb. 24 at 1346 Thurlow Street. All three demonstrations will be carried out regardless of weather.

Third national survival training course, due to start Feb. 26, is expected to attract fewer recruits than the first two, due to increased seasonal employment.

Recruiting for the third course is in progress now.

A meeting of the Hill Memorial Home and School Association will be held Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the school.

A slow and lazy storm area lying offshore from the U.S. coast will give variable cloud and sunshine to Victoria Saturday and possibly again Sunday, according to weatherman William Mackie.

"There may also be light showers, and the most likely time for them is overnight to night," he said.

Low temperature tonight will range between 38 and 40 degrees across the district, and the maximum Saturday will be 50 degrees. Winds will be from light to northerly at 15 miles per hour.

A man who told Magistrate Ostler in Saanich police court Thursday he was "no good to anyone" was fined $250 and prohibited from driving in Canada for one year for impaired driving.

Police said John D. Horne, 3060 Donald, tried to overtake another car on the Trans-Canada Highway but lost control and skidded for 120 feet before ending up halfway over a bank.

He was fined an additional $40 for driving without a licence.

Local barrister Monte Tyrwhitt Drake will address a public meeting of the Victoria Branch, B.C. Historical Association, Thursday at 8:15 p.m. in the Douglas Building cafeteria.

Mr. Drake's subject will be "Tales of the Bench and Bar of British Columbia and Vancouver's Island."

Ald. A. I. Curtis Thursday wondered whether residents of Saanich might like to share the $20,000 annual operating loss of Mountain View Home.

He pointed out the only two letters to newspapers opposing a decision to close the civic institution if the 26 aged men can be relocated satisfactorily had been written by Saanich residents.

"I wonder how they would feel about asking their councils to share the $20,000 cost of the home? I also wonder what their stand on amalgamation would be."

Guest artists at the Silver Threads Centre on Wednesday were William Tickle (violin), Reg Woods (saxophone), and George Fairfield (piano). The program was presented as a public service by Local 247, American Federation of Musicians.

VMD WILL BUILD NEW PATROL SHIP

Contract for construction of a $774,000 fisheries patrol ship has been awarded Victoria Machinery Depot, it was announced in Ottawa today.

The 95-foot vessel, designed to withstand heavy seas, will be used for search and rescue operations as well as normal fisheries patrol duties.

It will have four engines and twin screws capable of operating at 14 knots with a cruising range of 1,200 miles.

VMD hopes to start work on the ship in March or early April.

It is not known yet whether she will be built at the company's No. 2 plant at Ogden Point where two new provincial ferries are under construction, or at the No. 1 Bay Street plant.

With present contracts in hand the new job will mean a work force of about 800 at the two VMD plants by late August or early September.

DOUK VIOLENCE

Special Squad Handles Probe

OTTAWA (CP)—Attorney-General Robert Bonner of British Columbia indicated today that further arrests may be made among Sons of Freedom Doukhobors and, as a result, there will be problems involving the federal and provincial governments.

BOMBERS STRIKE AGAIN

NELSON (CP)—Terrorists tunneled into a provincial jail compound and planted three incendiary bombs Thursday night and the resulting explosion sent flames racing through the old jail annex.

Police and firemen rushed to the scene and snatched two unexploded bombs from the building. The fire was controlled in about 40 minutes with damage estimated at $3,000.

A few hours later RCMP reported another bombing incident in the Slocan Valley. A power pole was cut off at the butt by a dynamite explosion at a point near Winlaw, 50 miles north of Trail. There was no interruption of power in the area.

RCMP put the bombings down to a continuing reign of dynamiting and arson that has broken out sporadically throughout the Kootenays since police rounded up 79 suspected Sons of Freedom Doukhobor terrorists.

DUG TRENCH

Police said the Nelson incendiaryists dug a trench under a 15-foot high fence that surrounded the compound less than 40 yards from the old provincial jail, where more than 30 Freedomites are being held for trial on bombing and arson charges.

The terrorists crawled through the tunnel undetected by two guards who patrol the compound around the clock.

They gained entrance to the annex by jumping a door. A crowbar and candles were found in the compound by investigating officers.

Police dogs were brought in. They found the tunnel but lost a scent 200 yards away.

Fire Chief E. S. Owens said the bombs were made from glass bottles each containing about a gallon of gasoline and a wick. One of the bombs started the fire. Two unexploded incendiary bombs were found—one in the basement of the old annex building and the other on an upper floor.

COURTHOUSE ATTEMPT

The explosion was similar to an incident Feb. 4 when oil bombs were used in an attempt to destroy Nelson's 50-year-old courthouse.

No Grain Dicker

OTTAWA (CJ)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today that no negotiations are under way at this time between Canada and Communist China concerning further grain sales to China.

Mr. Bonner, here to confer with Justice Minister Fulton, noted that 72 members of the religious sect now are under arrest and 14 have been convicted of charges arising from terrorist activities.

"As evidence permits, the number of arrests will rise," he told reporters. "There will be matters of joint national and provincial concern arising out of this."

ANOTHER OUTBREAK

Terrorists set fire Thursday night to a building next to the Nelson courthouse where a number of the Sons of Freedom are being tried.

Mr. Bonner said that fire "serves to emphasize the seriousness of the questions of community order facing the west Kootenays. I am sure Mr. Fulton is just as concerned as we are because the situation appears to go beyond the normal problems of law enforcement."

He was asked whether this indicated the B.C. authorities believe the terrorist activities have gone beyond the capacity of the province to handle.

Mr. Bonner said he is not here to ask for "aid to the civil power," the technical term for calling out troops to assist police.

FORM SPECIAL SQUAD

Mr. Bonner said evidence collected by police over the last two or three years now is beginning to fall into place. Policing had been intensified this year through a special "D" squad, employing traditional police methods with uncommon ingenuity.

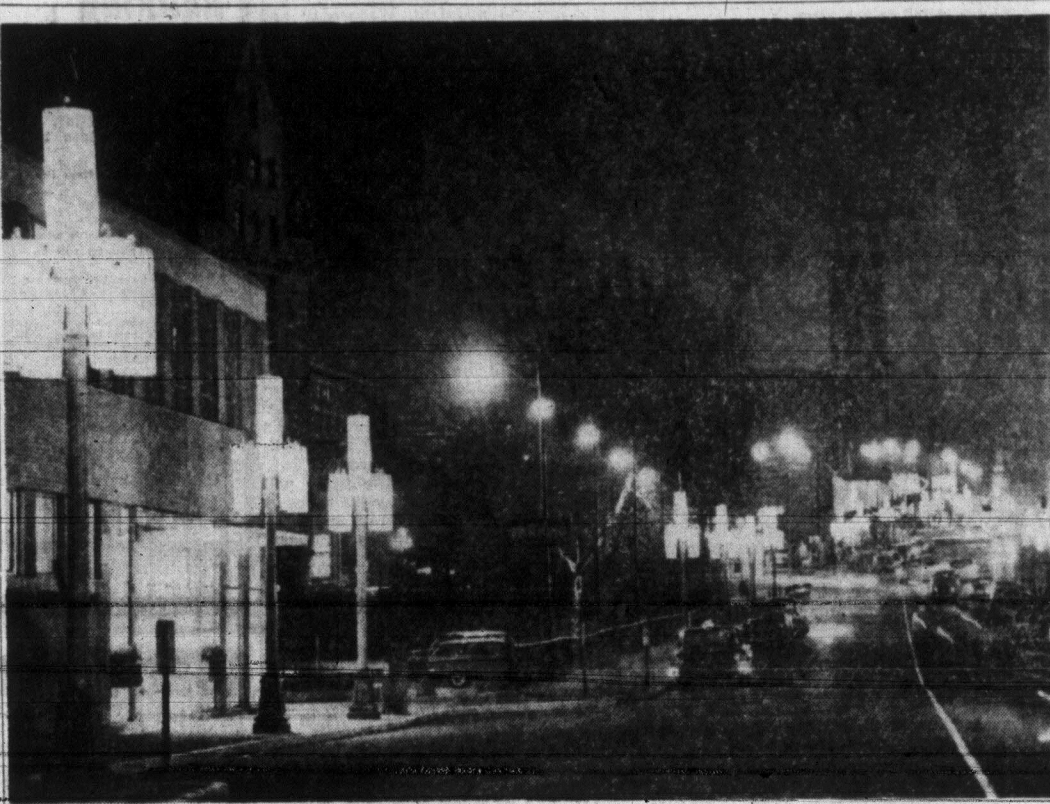

About 40 to 50 RCMP men were operating in the general area, occasionally all on terrorist investigations.

Regarding proposals to disperse the sect, Mr. Bonner would say only that he took up with Mr. Fulton certain recommendations of his own without indicating their nature.

DEAD AT 80

Ernest Brown, British health minister during the Second World War, died today in London. He had held government office continually from 1931 until his defeat in the 1945 general election. He was first elected to Parliament in 1927, representing Leith, Scotland.

BCE ASKS LICENCE FOR PEACE PROJECT

Speed Up Plans Says Dr. Shrum

B.C. Electric has filed its application to the B.C. government's water comptroller for a licence to build the Peace River power project.

B.C. Electric chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum said today that notices of the application were posted Tuesday at the Portage Mountain damsite in the Peace River country, near Hudson Hope.

He said full details of the engineering and plans were being filed with the regional water recorder at Pouce Coupe.

These details will be forwarded to Water Comptroller A. F. Paget in Victoria within a few days.

Mr. Paget will then decide if it is necessary to call public hearings either here or in the areas to be flooded out by the dam.

"We're going right ahead with this as fast as we can," said Dr. Shrum.

He said that most of the preliminary work at the damsite has now been completed.

An access bridge across the river has been finished and the first load of equipment will go over next Monday, he said.

Work on a pilot tunnel to test rock conditions has also been finished.

Dr. Shrum said he has advanced the contract date for the first major project—three diversion tunnels to cost about $20,000,000—by two weeks.

The contract will be let March 20 he said.

Premier Bennett will open bids for this contract in Vancouver on March 8.

CFL Rosters Cut

VANCOUVER (CP)—Import and player limits, waiver rules and the injury list headed up the business of Canadian Football League at the opening of its annual meeting here today.

On import and player limits the league officials decided a limit of 33 will be permitted each club after each team's third league game. Fifteen imports will be permitted but only 13 allowed to dress for each game. Formerly the limits were 35 players with 12 imports.

Woman Guilty

OTTAWA (CP)—An all-male jury today returned a verdict of guilty in the trial of Mrs. Adrienne Laroche, the former treasurer of suburban Eastview, charged with converting $10,790 in town funds to her own use.

The 52-year-old grandmother broke down and sobbed for the first time since her trial started nine days ago.

High Bail Set

TORONTO (CP)—Bail of $100,000 was set today for two Montreal waitresses faced with a total of 165 counts of uttering worthless travellers' cheques.

The extreme bail was requested by Crown counsel James Crossland after 68 new charges were laid Thursday against Germaine Parent, 26, and 67 new charges against Louise Tremblay, 27.

Giant Dike Breaks

THE HAGUE (UPI)—A giant dike holding back the sea from the northernmost of Holland's five Friesian Islands broke tonight under the force of near-hurricane winds.

LONDON (CP)—Winds of more than 100 miles an hour lashed Britain today, killing at least eight persons and cutting a wide trail of destruction. Trees were uprooted, roofs ripped off houses and roads, sea and air traffic disrupted by the vicious gales. Scotland and northern England were hardest hit, with gusts of wind reaching 117 miles an hour as they swept in from the Atlantic.

Six of those who died were killed in their beds when the gales brought the roofs of their homes crashing down.

Eight schools had to be closed in Bradford, northern England, and 2,000 students were sent home because of the damage caused to the buildings by the gales.

A 19-year-old mother was killed and her husband was severely injured when the roof of their home collapsed during the gales in Barnsley. Their 10-week-old baby, in a crib near their bed, was uninjured.

Gusts of 90 miles an hour blew down two 460-foot-high riverside power pylons and tied up shipping on the busy River Tyne in northeast England.

The high-power cables fell in the river as the twisted structures crashed to the ground. All shipping came to a halt along the river, on whose banks are some of Britain's biggest shipyards and busiest docks.

Algeria Peace Near But Violence Grows

PARIS (Reuters)—French cabinet ministers today discussed tighter measures for France and Algeria in readiness for the announcement of a cease-fire in the Algerian war.

Informed sources at Geneva said today an agreement to end the war had been concluded, with the exception of a few details, and was to be signed in Paris within the next 10 days.

Premier Michel Debre presided at the cabinet meeting that was attended by Defence Minister Pierre Messmer, Justice Minister Bernard Chenot, interior chief Roger Frey, delegate-general in Algeria Jean Morin, and Paris Police Prefect Maurice Papon.

No announcement was made after the meeting but official sources expected stringent measures to be applied in France and Algeria to guard against disorders by European extremists in case of the cease-fire.

But as peace in Algeria drew closer, extremists on both sides continued their program of violence.

Three prominent newspaper men on the influential daily paper Le Monde were the targets of plastic bomb blasts.

One of the explosions occurred outside the apartment of Le Monde's political commentator Jacques Fauvet.

'Pork Barrel' Charges Hurlled by Opposition

The B.C. government was accused Thursday of running a provincial unemployment insurance commission for former supporters, defeated or unsuccessful Social Credit candidates.

In budget speech debate in the legislature, James Rhodes (NDP-CCF Delta) named eight men now employed by the government who were either former aides or ran under the Social Credit banner.

He called this the "highest paid unemployment insurance in the world."

"What about the thousands of CCF and Liberals?" Education Minister Leslie Peterson hurled back.

"You are smearing good men," the minister said.

Other opposition members cried "pork barrel."

"What about Ron Worley?" Mr. Rhodes asked.

Centennial Flashback ...

THIS DAY IN VICTORIA - 1882

FEBRUARY 16

D. Jacobi today threw open the doors of a German coffee saloon, on Yates Street opposite Hibben and Carswell's. Early patrons described the place as "first class."

Major Tilton, formerly surveyor general of Washington Territory, purchased a portion of C. B. Young's property at the foot of Johnson Street adjoining the old bridge, including four frame buildings, for $12,000.

A warrant officer from the gunboat Forward reported he had been fired on last night by an Indian, as he was walking along Esquimalt Road. The ball whistled past his ear. It has not been established whether there is any connection with threats made against Royal Navy officers after the execution of "Charley," a Cowichan Indian, for the murder of an RN stoker.

The schooner Meg Mertilles reported lost with all hands early in January, arrived from Barclay Sound, where she had been locked in the ice all winter.

BAN-BOMB STUDENT MOB INVADERS WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Hundreds of college students swarmed into Washington today for a massive demonstration at the White House and on Capitol Hill against atmospheric nuclear testing by the United States or Russia.

Organized under the label "turn toward peace," the students streamed in throughout the night and this morning by bus, train, plane and automobile, armed with placards and literature. They called for concrete steps toward disarmament.

DURING COURTENAY STREET FIGHT

Miner Died of Asphyxiation, Court Told

COURTENAY — Asphyxiation caused the death of a man here during a street fight, Jan. 27, according to Nanaimo pathologist, Dr. R. S. Clarke.

Victim of the incident was Donald Butler, a Timmins, Ont., miner. Dr. Clarke said that while unconscious, probably from blows on the head, he had breathed vomit into his lungs. There was no brain injury, Dr. Clarke said.

Dr. Clarke testified at a preliminary hearing here Thursday on a charge of manslaughter against half-brothers Gary and Keith Parkinson, both 19, of Courtenay.

A third man, Peter L. M. Day, 24, also has been charged, and will appear for preliminary hearing following the Parkinson hearing.

The Parkinson brothers are represented by J. Caldwell of Campbell River, and S. J. Clark, Nanaimo, will appear for Day. The Parkinson hearing is expected to end this afternoon.

T. G. Ryan is acting for the crown.

At least 60 spectators were turned away from the crowded courtroom as the hearing got under way.

WHAT HO! HAVE YOU HEARD!! ??

My young friend, Eric Charman, of Fairfield Realty having received instructions from Messrs. Sly, Slope, Sharp and Swindle (The London Solicitors for the Doppington-Dunford Estates) will be holding

OPEN HOUSE — SATURDAY, 17th FEBRUARY

11.00 a.m. to 4.00 p.m.

1901 FAIRFIELD ROAD

This elegant residence, designed by the eminent architect, Sir Fairfax Fensomby, was built ten years ago, regardless of expense. Come and see the house so often admired by the passerby. Accommodation comprises birch panelled entrance hall, magnificent drawing room (ideally suited for drawing a cork or a picture), sizeable dining room, cosy panelled den with fireplace, two large bedrooms, luxurious bathroom (complete with lavatory), hobby room with W.C. and basin adjacent, hardwood parquet floors throughout. The residence is connected to main services including electricity, main water and telephone! Price: $23,800 or $8095 6s 3d. The owner will accept $4,000 down or £1,347 5s 2d.

P. S. Unfortunately, I am unable to get there myself as I am busily engaged in writing the final report for the Sir Joshua Jollington commission, which is enquiring into the possibility of cooler curries from Calcutta!

Bad Weather Foils Soviet

BERLIN (Reuters)—Russia, accused by the Western powers of harassing tactics in the vital air corridors to Berlin, made another attempt today to reserve one of the lanes for its exclusive use but appeared to be foiled by bad weather.

The bid—sixth since Feb. 8—came as the Western Allies were reported ready to put special measures into operation if Russian jets continued buzzing Western aircraft in the air corridors.

KIEL (Reuters)—Some 35 injured ship workers were rescued after being trapped in the hull of a whaling vessel which turned on its side at this West German port today.

Winner: car of the year award

Selected as the "Car of the Year" by Canada Track and Traffic, the nation's leading automotive journal, the 1962 Studebaker Lark was proved to be the best automobile buy of all domestic cars.

Lark has more leg room than any domestic family car. Seats are comfortable, well shaped. Greatest headroom, easy entry and exit.

Tests found the Lark to be rattle-free, weather-tight, quiet running and dependable.

Lark honoured as a most economical car to operate because of excellent gas mileage, low maintenance requirements, overall reliability, low cost of repairs, built on body components and nationwide service facilities. Lark judged to give most per dollar.

Judge the Lark for yourself at your Studebaker Dealer.

Winner: first Trans-Canada Rally

For the 4,100 tortuous miles of the first Trans-Canada Rally, the Studebaker Lark amazed spectators and other competitors with their thrilling acceleration and speed, top fuel economy and maximum passenger comfort. The fabulous Lark rocketed through tortuous downpours with never a miss, many cars failed this grueling test of endurance and handling.

This reliable performance made Lark outright winner, taking not only first but also second place over 86 competitors in 41 makes and models of cars.

This is the kind of reliable performance you deserve and should demand from a car.

R

Winner: Little Le Mans

Lark outmaneuvered, outdistanced, outpaced, all foreign and domestic cars to win the 4th annual Little Le Mans. Lark finished first, over all competitors and in so doing, won the trophy for the Fastest Lap.

The tortuous, twisting track with its sharp turns, 20 degree incline and short straightaway runs, gave brakes, steering, suspension, gears and acceleration the most complete testing possible. Eight ceaseless hours of Little Le Mans reflects real championship performance and endurance.

The Lark's race winning performance is not just for competition. Lark's dependability on the race course means less maintenance costs, and years of trouble free operation.

Test the Lark for yourself, then be a winner—buy a Lark.

K

Winner: Sales more than Doubled

Come in and test-drive the car that wins the competitions, and captures the public's eye. Lark is bigger where it counts. Big in feel... solid, safe, sure-footed. Big in Roominess... more leg and head room than other "standard" size cars. Big in Performance... 6 or V8, you get more miles-to-the-gallon and miles-to-the-hour.

Lark is compact where it's sensible. Compact for Driving Ease, finger-light steering, precise handling, first-time parking. Compact for Economy. You get more for your money and spend less because of the Lark's low, initial cost, operating expenses and maintenance.

These are reasons why '62 Studebaker Lark sales have increased 203.3%.

Re-evaluate your automobile standards—talk with your Studebaker Dealer, now.
